SANE GIRL SENT TO MADHOUSE

SAVED BY "CIRCUS STUNT"

Virginia Holmes, the well in which she nearly lost her life, and Nathan Robinson, who, helped by two other men, rescued her from Braintree well.

Virginia Holmes, seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Holmes of No. 26 Adams street, Braintree, was rescued from death in a well by a human chain composed of three men.

The links in the human chain were Herbert S. Mott, William Reardon and Nathan Robinson, all of Adams street.

The child had been playing near the mouth of the well, at the rear of the old burned Morrison mill, when she suddenly stumbled in. Her sister Josephine, eleven, heard her

WINE-BEER TAX TO PAY BONUS

Chicago, Nov. 9.—The Soldiers' Bonus Bill, with an additional provision to pay the bonus by a tax on light wines and beer, will be reintroduced in Congress by Congressman Fred A. Britten. Representative Britten said:

"My addition to the bonus bill will provide a tax of $10 a barrel on beer; $2 a gallon on domestic wines, $4 a gallon on imported still wines, and $8 a gallon on imported champagnes," he said.

"The beer so provided will be limited to an alcoholic content of 11 per cent., and the wine to 4 per cent., both by volume."

17 ENTER RACE FOR CITY COUNCIL

Two more candidates took out papers today at City Hall. They are Michael Lynch of No. 44 Dakota street, Dorchester, and William C. Sweeney of No. 26 Columbia road, Dorchester. This brings the number to fifteen men and two women.

They will contest for the seats now held by Councillors Fred Brickley and Walsh. Brickley and Watson will be candidates for re-election. Ford will retire this year.

MUST FACE TRIAL FOR MINE RIOTS

Marion, Ill., Nov. 9.—Judge Hartwell today denied a motion of defence attorneys to quash the indictments against the men charged with murder for their alleged connection with the Lester mine riots of last June and ordered the trial to proceed.

Frank Harrington, president of the Illinois United Mine Workers, says that in Williamson County the voters elected every candidate supported by the union, although Attorney-General Brundage, a Republican, urged the citizens to repudiate at the polls every Republican who could be suspected of union sympathies. The union will defend every man indicted.

150 TO 175 WETS IN NEW CONGRESS

Washington, Nov. 9 (By International News Service).—The importance of the net gains in Tuesday's elections was emphasized today as belated returns indicated the Wets have doubled their strength for the next Congress and will have at least 160 and perhaps 175 members favorable to modification of the Volstead law. It requires 218 to constitute a majority.

NEWBERRY MAY QUIT U. S. SENATE

Detroit, Nov. 9.—Truman H. Newberry probably will resign his seat in the United States Senate and Gov. Alex J. Groesbeck of Michigan will seek the appointment by resigning and having his successor, the present lieutenant governor, name him to fill the vacancy.

Senator Newberry refuses to say he won't resign.

CHURCH LEADER SLAYER

Accused With Woman and Second Man in Murder of Pastor and Singer

New Brunswick, N. J., Nov. 9.—The Grand Jury will be asked to investigate three persons in connection with the murder of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and his choir soprano, Mrs. Eleanor Reinhardt Mills, on the night of September 14, last.

Two are men, one is a woman.

No names have been made public, but it is known that the chief figures in the investigation, after a process of elimination stretching over many weeks, are these:

MRS. HALL, widow of the slain rector.

HENRY B. CARPENTER, her cousin, who lived near the Halls.

RALPH V. M. GORSLINE, vestryman and choir singer, the Ingo who is believed to have given letters or

8 Dead, 50 Hurt in Dublin Battle

Dublin, Nov. 9.—This city has just passed through a night of terror. Snipers were active all over Dublin and there were numerous skirmishes between Free State troops and small roving bands of irregulars.

It is estimated eight persons have been killed and about fifty wounded in the last twenty-four hours.

Wellington barracks, near the home of Minister of Defence Mulcahy was the scene of another encounter like that of last week between Republicans and Free Staters. Twenty-five of the latter were wounded. Two Republicans were killed and several wounded.

WOMAN JUDGE FOR OHIO HIGH COURT

Cleveland, Nov. 9.—Judge Florence E. Allen of the Cuyahoga Common Pleas Court, probably will be the first woman to sit as a member of a court of last resort. Returns from 8,000 of the State's 8,167 precincts show Miss Allen in second place for the Supreme Court with 401,206 votes. Judge Robert H. Day of Massillon has been elected to the other vacancy, having 468,285 votes in the same precincts.

LIVING COST STILL CLIMBS IN STATE

The high cost of living is going up. It increased eight-tenths of one per cent. last month, says the Commission on the Necessaries of Life.

"Food prices increased," said the Commission. Clothing prices were slightly higher. The fuel index was increased due to advances in the price charged for coal and kerosene.

What could be bought for $100 in 1913 now costs $156.60.

150 MILLION 'LOST' BY NEW HAVEN

The New Haven road has made "unproductive expenditures" of $150,000,000, Professor W. J. Cunningham of Harvard told the New England railroad conference at the State House today.

Cunningham said the expenditures hardly improve railroading and give no important income to the road.

The Hampden Railroad, if it had gone through, he said, would have saddled a capital expense of $6,000,000, on which the road could never earn dividends, and for which the freight and passenger traffic would have to pay.

SECOND MENTAL TEST FOR BARTLETT

Alfred W. Bartlett, under indictment for first degree murder of Frank E. Small, Dorchester druggist, will be again examined by alienists. James E. O'Connell, counsel for Bartlett, today asked Judge Bishop to postpone the hearing until December 4, which was granted.

The State Department of Mental Diseases, which reported that Bartlett was psychopathic, but not insane, will make the second examination. Two penitentiary wardens said Bartlett was unbalanced.

ASYLUM TRIP BARRED MARRIAGE PLANS, JARDINE ADMITS

William F. Jardine, testifying today before Auditor G. A. A. Pevey in Suffolk Superior Court, admitted he did not think his ward, Dorothy Gordon, was insane when he had her committed to McLean Insane Asylum.

This was one of several admissions made at the hearing on the petition of Dorothy's uncle, John Gardiner of Baldwin, Long Island, to have Jardine removed as her guardian.

Jardine said he had never made any accounting to the girl between her twenty-first birthday, January 31, 1921, and her commitment, March 22, 1921, though he was supposed to givt over her estate on the first date.

The witness said he had taken Dorothy to the asylum without having her examined by any specialist thinking she was "suffering from nervous trouble." He then admitted that he knew that he had imprisoned this sane girl among insane companions, many of whom were raving maniacs.

Attorney Sheehan, representing Mr. Gardiner, asked Jardine:

QUIZZED BY LAWYER.

"Was Dorothy crazy when she left the house with you that morning of March 22, 1921?" A.—From my own knowledge I wouldn't say she was.

Q.—Will you say she was insane when she was put in the asylum A.—She was insane after she got there.

Q.—Didn't you call a specialist to examine her before you took her A.—No.

Q.—You took her without any examination? A.—Yes.

Q.—You had no knowledge that she was insane? A.—No positive knowledge.

Q.—When you put her in the tax

"DRY" LAW BEATEN IN CALIFORNIA

Belated returns show California defeated the Wright bill, designed to have the State enforce the national prohibition law. Illinois voted for light wines and beer. Ohio, however, defeated a bill to legalize 2.75 per cent. beer.

CANDLER TO FLEE FROM EX-FIANCEE

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 9.—While Mrs. Onezima De Bouchelle, New Orleans beauty, is preparing to sue Asa G. Candler, millionaire Coca Cola manufacturer, to clear her name of the stain her ex-fiance is alleged to have cast upon it, the Candler family is rushing action to send him abroad for a year or two "until conditions at home are normal."

ARMISTICE DAY IS NOT LEGAL HOLIDAY

Massachusetts will not observe Armistice Day as a legal holiday. Stores, banks, offices and factories will be open as usual. In many sections it was believed that it would be holiday because of the proclamation of Governor Cox urging everyone to observe the anniversary as extensively as possible.

GOOD WEATHER FOR FOOTBALL PREDICTED

Good football weather on Saturday was predicted by the weather man today. Meanwhile the official forecast is: Fair and colder tonight and Friday; fresh westerly winds. Eastport, Me., was the coldest place in New England at 8 a. m., while Boston and Nantucket were the warmest. Eastport's temperature was 32 and 46 was recorded at Boston.

LIBERAL REPUBLICAN LEAGUE

An Appeal to the Fair-Minded Voters of Massachusetts: IS LODGE ELECTED?

The Liberal Republican League does not concede the election of Lodge by the trifling plurality now quoted by the press.

We believe Gaston has been elected, and on behalf of 50,000 Liberal Republicans who participated with us in our fight against Lodge and for Gaston we are demanding a state-wide recount of the Senatorial vote.

We have only two days in which to prepare and file the necessary petitions in every town and city.

We need YOUR help in procuring a fair, honest, impartial verification of the Lodge-Curtiss vote.

We print below copy of the necessary form of petition to be used in this case.

Cut out this form, paste it upon a sheet of heavy paper, sign it yourself, get nine other registered voters to sign it with you, make oath to the truth of the petition before a Notary Public or a Justice of the Peace, have the signers certified by your Registrars of Voters, and then file the petition with your Town or City Clerk immediately, and in no case later than Friday, Nov. 10, at five o'clock, after which time no application for recount can be made.

After you have filed this petition, please advise THE LIBERAL REPUBLICAN LEAGUE by telephone at our expense, Boston, Main 3240.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR USE—Have this petition—

(1) Signed by ten voters of your Town or Ward.
(2) Sworn to by one of the said signers before a Justice of the Peace or Notary Public.
(3) Certified to by Registrars of Voters.
(4) Filed with Town or City Clerk before the closing of his office on Friday, Nov. 10th, 1922.

To the Town or City Clerk of.....1922.

We, the undersigned, hereby request a recount of ballots for the office of United States Senator in the Town of or Ward.....City of.....for the reason that we have reason to believe, and do believe, that the records or copies of records made by the Election Officers in the precincts of such Town or Ward of the City of..... are erroneous in that more votes were credited to Henry Cabot Lodge than were received by him, and that more votes were cast for William A. Gaston than were credited to him by said Election Officers.

Name written in full, not initials, same as on voting list. Residence on April 1, 1922.

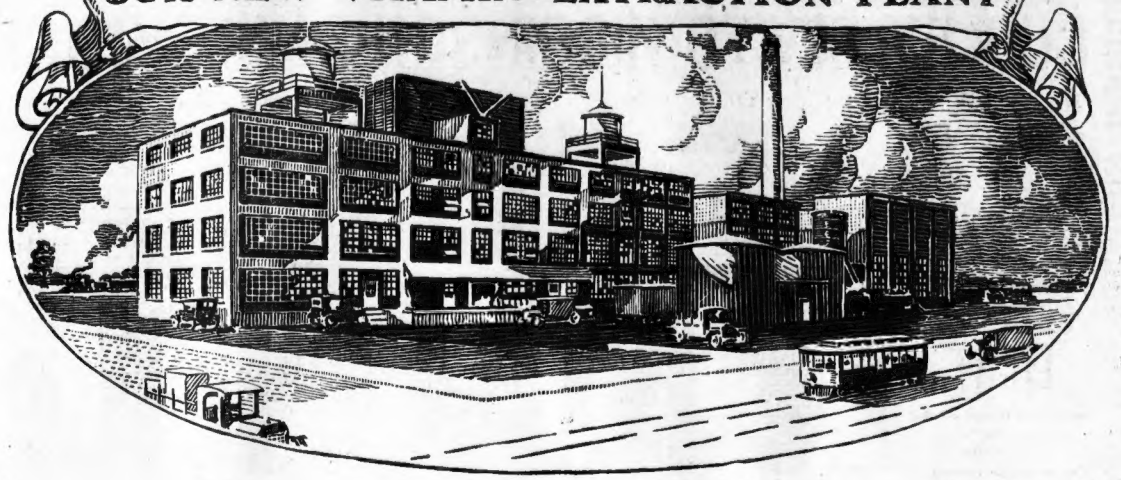
OUR NEW VITAMIN EXTRACTION PLANT



Here's the Evidence of Our Faith in Vitovim Bread!

We have spent more than $1,500,000 to make this loaf a reality

The Discovery of VITAMINS

WILEY, Atwater and their co-workers established the chemical composition and the energy or caloric value of foods. Following the pioneer lead of the Dutch physician, Eijkman, Hopkins of England is given the credit by his scientific associates for, in the language of Dr. Sherman of Columbia University, "having first made clear that natural food contains and normal nutrition requires some other substance or substances besides proteins, fats, carbohydrates and mineral matter." He was the first to produce an extract of the substances in food required for growth. Following his work almost simultaneously, Osborne and Mendel, McCollum and Davis, and Funk announced similar discoveries. Dr. Funk named these growth-promoting and health-producing substances "vitamins."

Leading Universities, agricultural experiment stations and scientific institutions here and abroad, the United States Public Health Service and Bureau of Chemistry, already doing pioneer work in the field of food nutrition—organized thorough plans for research. Among the foremost of those whose unselfish work has added to the newer knowledge of nutrition, in addition to the pioneers mentioned, are:

Drummond	Hale	McCarrison
Dutcher	Hart	Rose
Eddy	Hess	Sherman
Emmett	Howe	Steenbock
Forbes	Johns	Voegtlin
Goldberger	Jones	Zilva
	Kuzlo

Independent researches have been conducted in many laboratories. Great numbers of feeding tests have been made, under standards for scientific technique accepted as correct. Animal feeding tests have been followed by human feeding tests. The results show that the food substances called "Vitamins" are necessary for health, growth and vigor and must be contained in the make-up of a dependable diet.

VITOVIM BREAD Contains:

1—Proteins of superior food value for growth and strength.
2—A well-balanced variety of body building salts for bones and teeth.
3—Liberal amounts of Vitamins A and B.
4—Food elements needed by the nursing mother and growing child.
5—Abundant energy at low cost.
6—Compelling flavor.

THE cost of erecting and equipping this great new Vitamin Extraction Plant represents only a portion of the vast amount of money expended by the Ward Baking Company in their successful effort to produce a delicious, creamy white wheat loaf that would be an all-around food. Before you were asked to buy a single loaf of WARD'S VITOVIM BREAD, the Ward Baking Company had spent more than $1,500,000 in scientific research and in building and equipping this great plant—the first of its kind in the world.

We have established also a new process evaporation plant providing our own source of supply for the rich whole milk solids used in this bread. Literally nothing has been left undone to insure delivery to the public of a product uniform in all of the high qualities which have been developed in this new loaf.

Why This Creamy White Super-Bread Was Created

The development of VITOVIM BREAD has a close connection with vitamins which you have been hearing so much about. Vitamins, you may know, are recently discovered elements of food which hundreds of feeding tests conducted in our own and many other laboratories have proved to be an indispensable part of our diet.

Vitamins have always existed in certain foods. Foods are the natural source of vitamins. We have always eaten them—a well-balanced diet supplies a sufficiency of vitamins. But often times we do not eat a well-balanced diet. In that case we fail to get our share of these essential substances and in consequence our vitality is lessened, we lack energy and vigor.

Up to this time white bread, including home-made bread, has been decidedly deficient in vitamins. It was the idea of introducing them together with the valuable proteins and the natural mineral nutrients from the germ or heart of the wheat—a part of the wheat berry which is discarded from white flour in milling—that led to the perfection of this marvelous loaf. It was an effort to produce in a white bread a truly all-around food.

In making WARD'S VITOVIM BREAD all the treasures of the wheat berry are restored to the white flour—not only vitamins but other important parts of the wheat, and these nutritious wheat foods are reinforced by the valuable vitamins and proteins of rich, whole milk.

Feeding Tests Prove Our Claims

Long continued animal feeding tests by scientists of our leading universities have proved our claims for the great nutritional value of this super loaf, and pronounce it the first perfect white bread. You will be interested to know that in these feeding tests, with nothing more than VITOVIM BREAD and water, various experimental animals were raised to full growth and maturity, to breed and reproduce even to the third and fourth generation. There never was a home-made loaf or any other loaf that could accomplish the same result.

In this bread—one of the most remarkable food products ever developed—are the essential factors of a well-balanced diet. You owe it to your family and to yourself to provide such food. WARD'S VITOVIM BREAD saves you most of the trouble of figuring out for yourself just what constitutes a well-balanced diet. It has been perfected by food experts for that very purpose.

A "100% Plus" Milk-Loaf—Nutritious and of Appetizing Tastiness

WARD'S VITOVIM BREAD is a loaf richer in milk than any bread heretofore made—richer ever than the finest home-made bread. It insures you a normal supply of the most important vitamins and aids you in guarding against the effects of a badly balanced diet. It supplies the needful food elements to keep you in health and to nourish the growing young bodies of children.

If you could see the startling results of our feeding tests you would be as enthusiastic as we are about the nourishing qualities of VITOVIM BREAD. You would start using it today and stick to it for life. But remember that VITOVIM is not simply a bread that is good for you, it is a bread that is very good to eat. It has the most captivating flavor imaginable. A creamy white delight to the eye—an appetizing, satisfying food.

Sign up to eat it daily for at least three months. Send your order to your neighborhood dealer. Make VITOVIM the basis of your daily diet. It will pay you both in health and pocket.

All competitive breads, including home-made bread, are challenged to equal its nutritional value by public tests!

No Anti-Harding Vote Hiram Johnson, as Usual in Ford's Way And Look, Here's Berger

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1922, by Star Company.

SOME that know a great deal, the Times and Post of New York included, say the landslide indicates disapproval of President Harding and "eliminates him from 1924."

That's nonsense. There was nothing in the vote against Harding.

Hiram Johnson performed as usual, carried California by a gigantic vote, proving his power and the intelligence of California voters. That's a fine thing. One of these days, 1924 perhaps, Hiram Johnson will be elected President.

The election may make it harder for Henry Ford to get his Democratic nomination two years hence. The Democrats wouldn't take him unless convinced they couldn't win with anybody else. Many things may happen during the next two years. But that the Democrats will learn much in the two years is improbable. They will probably face the next national election knowing as little about the probabilities as in 1920.

Victor Berger goes back to Congress from Wisconsin. That doesn't suit a majority of those that own $10,000 or more. But there's comfort for them. First, Berger is law abiding, never advocated any action opposed to the Constitution or laws. He might change both, if he could, but meanwhile he obeys law.

Second, he is an educated man, knows history, understands political movements.

In Congress he will watch and talk plainly about grafters. Being in a minority, several hundred to one, he can't do anything except oppose, expose and criticise. Let that comfort you.

By the way, Republicans now controlling the House by the slender margin of five or six votes, probably won't attempt to keep Berger out of his seat. They might get a Democrat in his place, or, what would be worse, they might build up a Bradlaugh case here.

Censorship of moving pictures, leading up to censorship of press, books and public speech, was beaten three to one in Massachusetts. An educated community can do its own censoring and rely on its police to punish crimes in publicity as in other directions. That's a good thing.

Edwards is elected Senator in New Jersey over FreiNghuysen by a big majority. He says his fight against prohibition did it. It was a bad election day for prohibition, beaten in Illinois, in New York, and wherever "the issue was made. Pendulums

GASTON TO KEEP UP FIGHT

Legal Talent to Represent the Democratic Aspirant All Over the State

Preparations for a recount of the Bay State vote for United State Senator in behalf of Colonel William A. Gaston were under way today.

Errors in the original count, which gave the election to Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, are alleged.

Returns secured by the Associated Press indicate that Lodge defeated Gaston by a plurality of 8,425 votes. On the face of these returns Lodge secured 413,563 votes, Gaston 405,138.

But Colonel Gaston and his supporters do not concede the "Sage of Nahant" has been re-elected.

Furthermore, the Democratic candidate declared that at all recounts, in every city and town, he would be represented by legal talent.

This is the first time in the history of the Commonwealth that a State-wide recount has been asked.

Speaking for Colonel Gaston, Joseph P. Lyons, one of his campaign managers, said:

"Petitions have been mailed to every city and town and representatives of Colonel Gaston have been sent to those cities and towns where we would be unable to rely upon effective recount work.

"The margin of Senator Lodge's victory is measured by not more than 8,000 votes, according to press returns. Those, of course, are unofficial. There is always the possibility of a mistake having been made. More than 809,000 votes were cast, and the margin between Senator Lodge's vote and Colonel Gaston's vote is very narrow.

"Colonel Gaston owes the duty of a recount of all men and women who supported him.

"We will appreciate the services of all volunteer workers in completing the recount petitions."

Fifty signatures must be obtained in every ward in Boston and ten in every precinct outside.

In addition to the demand for recount voiced by Colonel Gaston, the Liberal Republican League, which endorsed his candidacy, will ask for a recount. The league will act up a claim that mistakes were made in the Tuesday counting.

Regardless of the outcome of a recount, Colonel Gaston looks upon the election as a warning from the electorate to the Republican party.

"This election is only a prelude to what is to happen two years hence," he declared. "The country has registered a vigorous protest to a policy of drifting without leaders, to a failure to rise to a great crisis and to meet it with wise constructive action.

"No party in the history of the country has ever received so glorious an opportunity as did the Republicans two years ago, with 7,000,000 majority in the nation and 400,000 in the State of Massachusetts. The country has now completely reversed that vote of confidence."

Work was started immediately to get the required signatures of ten voters in every city or town throughout the State, except Boston, where fifty signatures must be secured from every precinct, where a recount is sought.

All such signatures must be filed at the office of the Secretary of State not later than seventy-two hours after the close of the polls, or 5 p. m. on Friday.

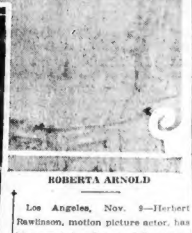
PONZI ASKS AUDITOR, BUT JUDGE REFUSES

Charles Ponzi continued today in the Suffolk Superior Court his cross-examination of Charles F. Rittenhouse, expert accountant. This is the third day that Rittenhouse has been subjected to a fire of questions from the former money wizard. Ponzi asked the court to appoint an auditor to determine how Rittenhouse's report was prepared. Judge Fosdick refused, saying that Ponzi had no right to ask the court to prepare his case for him.

RAWLINSON AND WIFE HE DIVORCED

Stage beauty failed to contest suit of her husband, Herbert Rawlinson, "handsomest man of the films." The latter is now being sued for damages as a sequel to his affairs with Dorothy Clark, dancing star.

HERBERT RAWLINSON



ROBERTA ARNOLD

Los Angeles, Nov. 9—Herbert Rawlinson, motion picture actor, has been granted a decree of divorce in the Superior Court here from Minerva Rawlinson, known on the legitimate stage as Roberta Arnold.

The suit was not contested. He charged incompatibility. Rawlinson has been defendant here in damage suits filed by Mrs. Ethel Clark in behalf of herself and of her daughter, Dorothy Clark Elms, stage dancer.

COSMOPOLITAN DEPOSITORS TO GET $654,175

Commissioner of Banks Joseph C. Allen was today authorized to pay a first dividend to the depositors of the commercial department of the Cosmopolitan Trust Company, amounting to 10 per cent. on proved claims. The decree includes the foreign department of the closed trust company, and Commissioner Allen will pay $654,175.88 to 3,229 depositors.

The order of the court expressly orders Commissioner Allen to withhold dividends to the directors of the trust company who have deposits in the commercial department, against whom suits are pending for over $5,000,000.

Payment on the dividend will begin November 25, at the office of the liquidating agent, No. 138 Congress street, second floor. To secure the dividend the certificate of proof of claim issued by Commissioner Allen must be presented either by mail or in person.

ARREST BOSTON MAN TRYING TO SELL GUN

New York, Nov. 9.—Julius Yakimezuk, thirty-two, of No. 6 Salem street, Boston, picked out a poor prospect when he tried to sell a revolver in Grand Central terminal today. Approaching F. J. McLaughlin, a detective, he offered to dispose of the weapon for $1.50 to make up the "rest of the fare to Boston." He was arraigned in Yorkville Court and held in $500 bail on the charge of violating the Sullivan law as carrying concealed weapon.

FESSENDEN HAS QUIT BENCH

Winfred H. Whiting of Worcester Named as Successor

Judge Franklin G. Fessenden, dean of the Superior court, has resigned. He had served since 1891.

Winfred H. Whiting of Worcester, was appointed by Gov. Cox to succeed him. Judge Whiting is 42 years old, was born in West Boylston, and attended Brown University and Harvard Law School. In 1910 he was appointed by Governor Draper to be special justice of the Worcester District Court.

Governor Cox also reappointed Eugene Buckley of Boston as a member of the State Boxing Commission, and Charles L. Carr as a member of the Boston Finance Commission to succeed James M. Morrison, who resigned. He also appointed ten supervisors of election to have charge of the city election in Revere on Dec. 12. This was at the request of a number of Revere citizens.

BIG FIRE EXHIBITS IN PUBLIC LIBRARY

The Boston fire of 1872 and other local conflagrations form the basis of a special exhibition which is being conducted at the Exhibition Room of the Boston Public Library, Copley Square.

Newspaper accounts, historical reports, official records and numerous pictures of the fires have been placed in view. A panoramic picture showing the unfinished Post Office building and City Hall in 1872 is one of the features.

The Boston fires of 1711, 1737 and 1760 are also portrayed in written accounts.

COUNT BRAMBILLA GOING TO DENMARK

Rome, Nov. 9.—Congratulations are pouring into Prince Gelasio Caetani and Baron Romano Avezzano, for their appointments as ambassadors to Washington and Paris, respectively. Many like messages also are coming to Count Brambilla, whose wife is the daughter of the late George von L. Meyer, long-time American Ambassador to Italy, over the Count's appointment as Minister to Denmark.

LADY ASTOR GIVES $1,000 TO RADCLIFFE

Lady Astor has given $1,000 to Radcliffe Endowment Fund in recognition of the "best college for instruction in the science of politics which appeals to my Virginian patriotism." Announcement of the gift was made today at a meeting of workers striving to raise an endowment of $3,000,000 before January 1. In connection with the contribution Lady Astor wrote that she hoped the college would establish a hall of politics for instruction in "the history of government and economics."

POINDEXTER TRAILS DILL, 4,368 BEHIND

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 9.—Revised figures on the United States senatorial race between Miles Poindexter, Republican, incumbent, and C. C. Dill, Democrat, tabulated today, with 299 scattered precincts missing, gave Dill a lead of 4,368 votes.

The figures included the rechecked count for the city of Seattle, where early returns had in some instances disregarded the straight party votes. The net gain for Poindexter in the city precincts was 746 votes.

MAIL TRUCK STRIKES WOMAN

Mrs. Mary Watterson, forty-three, of No. 60 Lexington street, Charlestown, was struck by a United States mail truck, Cambridge division, while crossing City Square, Charlestown, today. She is at Haymarket Relief Station suffering from contusions and abrasions. The machine was driven by Albert J. McCormack of No. 47 Walkhill street, Jamaica Plain.

JEALOUS MAN WOUNDS 3; THEN KILLS SELF

Norwalk, Ct., Nov. 9.—William Eckert, sixty, a gardener, said to have been crazed by jealousy today in his home shot and seriously injured his wife, aged fifty, and William Bodge, twenty-five, a boarder, fired a shot which grazed the shoulder of his daughter Thelma, twenty-two, and then turned the revolver on himself, shooting himself through the head, dying instantly.

CURLEY WINS DECISION IN CLEMENCEAU BOUT

session of the Clemenceau cup, giving him the privilege of furnishing bed and board for M. Georges Clemenceau, former premier of France, when he visits this city.

Every seat was taken when the feature bout was announced, and judging by the interest manifested, a lot of money was at stake on the outcome.

The fight by rounds:

ROUND ONE.

Both boys appeared cautious without shaking hands. "Franky" Higginson showed evidence of being slightly upstage. "Fighting Jimmy" seemed puzzled by his opponent's style. Higginson feinted and sunk a right to the midriff in the form of a letter which read:

"My Dear Mayor Curley:

"You are invited to become a member of a committee formed to welcome and receive M. Georges Clemenceau upon his arrival in Boston on Wednesday, November 22.

"It is expected that M. Clemenceau will arrive at the South Station at 2:30 p. m. He will be met and escorted by military and naval bodies to the State House, where he will be received in the Hall of Flags by the Governor and the committee of welcome.

"At 4 o'clock, on Thursday afternoon, November 23, M. Clemenceau will speak at Symphony Hall.

"As nothing will be charged for the tickets to Symphony Hall and as there will be certain other incidental expenses, the members of the committee of welcome are asked to contribute $5. Checks should be made payable to F. L. Higginson, Jr., chairman."

This was clearly "Franky's" round.

ROUND 2.

Higginson swung like a barn door for Curley's jaw and missed. His judgment was very bad. He sent in a letter requesting the Mayor to disregard the notification with reference to the $5 contribution.

ROUND 3.

"Fighting Jimmy" took the offensive at the gong, battered "Franky" to his knees with a shower of cutting remarks, which read, in part:

"I appreciate the generous impulse prompting your course of action, but I confess I am at a loss to know by what right you have delegated to yourself the chairmanship of a committee whose existence is as yet a mystery, self-appointed to entertain the distinguished representative of the French Republic.

"I am at a loss to understand by whom authority was delegated to you to assume charge of a function that should be discharged by the municipality extending the invitation.

"However, assuming that this authority has been delegated to you, I beg to say that, being personally of a modest and retiring disposition, and having no desire to transgress upon a privilege either delegated or voluntarily acquired, the City of Boston, having no desire to embarrass you, withdraws from any participation in the exercises incident to the reception of M. Georges Clemenceau."

There was no question as to who won this round.

ROUND 4

Higginson was groggy when he came from his corner, and offered a weak defense to "Fighting Jimmy's" smashing attack, by a feeble statement to the effect that the whole trouble was "due to a clerical error."

ROUND 5

"Franky" weakening fast. Telephoned to the Mayor's office for an appointment of five minutes' duration to "straighten out the matter."

ROUND 6

Higginson collapses when Curley agrees to conference of "five minutes." Higginson's seconds throw in the sponge. The crowd goes wild.

INDIAN GIRL CURSED BURIAL; IS ARRESTED

Kansas City, Kan., Nov. 9.—Miss Helena Conley, a Wyandotte Indian who, with her two sisters, recently sought with shotguns and imprecations to prevent the burial of a white man in an old Indian cemetery in the heart of the business district here, was in jail today, charged with disturbing the peace. Miss Conley became profane, according to police, and the Park Commissioners ordered her arrest.

"SELL" KAISER TO HIGHEST BIDDER

(Copyright, 1922, by International News Service.)

Doorn, Holland, Nov. 9.—"Imperial interviews!—Pictures for sale.—Apply at the House of Doorn!"

J. Rufus Wallingford and Blackie Daw were pikers alongside the "Picture Peddlers and Publicity Promoters, Unlimited—Main office, Castle Doorn."

This concern is headed by Court Marshal Count Moltke, aided by trusty lieutenants as salesmen, who can talk as fast and as well as any veteran drummer.

They are past masters in the art of price driving and business is flourishing right now. Big deals are impending. The correspondent has the details from Moltke himself.

Money-mad flunkeys surround the former Kaiser, before whom they cringe, but who they are exploiting with "get-rich-quick" schemes that make Ponzi look like an amateur. The scheme is to make the world's press pay for the support of the ex-Kaiser.

The promoters are exploiting a phantom emperor to get hard cash. A village photographer near Doorn was summoned to take pictures of the bridal couple. Also, he took two striking poses of Wilhelm alone, resplendent in uniform of a Prussian general, richly gold braided with a broad, yellow sash across the chest and numberless decorations and medals gleaming on the bosom.

This photograph was an outcome of the "dollar dreams" of Count Moltke and his partners. They expected to sell it to the highest bidder. It was to furnish the groundwork for a price-driving rush. But another "sucker baiting" scheme must be concluded first.

There exists another recent photograph showing the ex-Kaiser in civilian attire, taken by his son, Prince August. The sale of this latter picture was entrusted to George Sylvester Viereck, an untiring exponent of the German cause during the war and devoted chronicler of the virtues of Kaiserism. Now Viereck is in Berlin promoting the sale of the photograph to anyone bidding a fortune for it.

"Movie" Industry Is Grateful for Big Vote, Says Hays

Editor Boston American:

Censorship of motion pictures has been defeated in Massachusetts in a direct vote of the people by a majority of three hundred and forty thousand.

This overwhelming vote against censorship is a splendid response to the appeal of the press and citizens of that State that the Commonwealth of Massachusetts stand against this undue political aggression.

Just as certainly is it a definite and unmistakable challenge to the motion picture industry to carry out its program for its own continual improvement in the full discharge of its duty to the public.

This responsibility is accepted by the industry in the spirit of highest service, and it will in grateful earnestness fully discharge this duty.

TEN S. S. LINES SEEK SPEEDY RUM RULING

Washington, Nov. 9.—Ten foreign steamship lines today filed petitions with the United States Supreme Court asking prompt action on their appeals to test the validity of Attorney Daugherty's ruling barring liquor from the American three-mile limit.

Briefs were filed by George W. Wickersham, attorney for the Cunard and Anchor lines.

POSSE SEEKING ASSAILANT OF AGED WOMAN

Montpelier, Vt., Nov. 9.—Posses are searching for a youth of about twenty, who tied 70-year-old Mrs. Alfred Bailey to a bed in her home, stripped her fingers and robbed the house of money and valuables.

She said her assailant was dressed in the uniform of a soldier and had a large scar on one of his lips.

Cox Sends Thanks to American for Its Attitude

Governor Channing H. Cox sent a telegram to the Boston American, thanking the paper for its "uniformly kind treatment" of him, and expressing his gratitude for the support accorded him by the citizens of Boston. The telegram reads:

"I am indebted to the Boston American for its uniformly kind treatment throughout the years of my public service. May I express to the people of Boston my gratitude for their splendid consideration."

U. S. TO FIGHT $150,000,000 MAIL FRAUDS

Washington, Nov. 9.—Attorney-General Daugherty has issued orders for the speedy prosecution in the Federal courts of hundreds of alleged swindlers who are charged with plundering the homes of the poor of nearly $150,000,000 through fraudulent use of the mails.

Approximately five hundred cases were said to be in the hands of United States attorneys throughout the country for consideration of institution of criminal proceedings and for further action. Nearly 400 persons have been arrested or indicted in connection with the cases now before the courts.

According to government records, 3,882 cases are distributed among fifteen divisions of the Department of Justice as follows: Atlanta, 180; Austin, Tex., 446; Boston, 124; Chattanooga, 139; Chicago, 382; Cincinnati, 292; Denver, 76; Kansas City, 339; New York, 725; Philadelphia, 216; St. Louis, 144; St. Paul, 80; San Francisco, 1,971; Spokane, 61; and Washington, 291.

THE INSTRUMENT OF QUALITY Sonora CLEAR AS A BELL

Canterbury $200

Plays the Best Record Better

THE Sonora not only plays with equal ease all records made. Its present-day models are the result of investigations and refinements to produce a tone voluminous, but not sharp or shrill—to reproduce faithfully the sweet quality of the actual voice as well as the exact tones of piano, violin, cornet and piccolo and other brass and wood instruments. Only on a phonograph with all wood horn construction and correct acoustic lines is it possible to reproduce instrumental music without exaggerating the metallic quality of metal wind instruments.

The Sonora, being exclusively made on these principles, therefore plays the best record better—no matter who made the record. A trial will tell.

ABSENCE EXPLAINED BY ACCUSED "BLACKMAIL VAMP" IN COURT

CORCORAN TO RETURN FOR TRIAL

Reported Ready to Come Back in View of Pelletier's Defeat

Following a report that William J. Corcoran, former district attorney of Middlesex county, who defaulted last week, might return to Boston to stand trial, Mrs. Theresa Duggan, accused blackmail vamp, who also defaulted, appeared in Superior Court today.

Mrs. Duggan, who with Corcoran and eight others was indicted for extortion, was accompanied to the bench by Assistant Attorney-General Hurwits, who explained that she had not been notified of the date of appearance last week. Judge Bishop removed the default and Mrs. Duggan was released on her original bonds.

When the cases of Corcoran and the others were called, it was found that the former district attorney, whose confession to the Attorney-General is believed to have been responsible for the abrupt ending of the removal proceedings against former District Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier, had left town. It was thought that he had fled in fear that Pelletier would be successful in his fight to again obtain the office of district attorney.

According to report today Corcoran will now return for trial, as Pelletier was defeated by District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien. Corcoran's confession was generally believed to contain evidence highly damaging to Pelletier.

Trial of the blackmail cases is scheduled for November 15, provided the Charles Ponzi proceedings are concluded by that time, which is considered doubtful.

SICK MOTHER BEGS MISSING GIRL RETURN

Nineteen-year-old Sarah Rotner of No. 11 Breed square, Lynn, is missing from home, and, as a result, her mother is ill in bed, crying for her only child and asking that she return.

"My dear daughter, please come home," is her plea. "When I had that argument with you I was only joking. I didn't think that you would take it seriously.

swing back and forth, not "back" only.

Pinchot's enormous vote in Pennsylvania shows it is easy to elect a Republican, if you nominate the right Republican, and with the old-fashioned majority. Like that Jack the Giant Killer—Hiram Johnson—Pinchot shows in his vote that it's the man, not the political label, that counts.

Parties are becoming less important.

Outside of American politics, and this election so important as we now, and all to be forgotten in a few weeks, there isn't much to tell you on this particular day.

Cotton went up $5 a bale yesterday. Recently it has been "bulging," as the cotton gamblers call it, energetically. You will soon see thirty-cent cotton, probably, an excellent thing for the South and therefore excellent for the whole country. It can't and wouldn't deserve to be prosperous with the South in trouble.

German marks and French francs went down again hand-in-hand, so to speak. Europe doesn't know it, but there is neither health nor comfort in living beside a half dead body or a half dead nation. Don't kill a thing, if you must stay tied to the corpse.

Stocks were cheerful. Gentlemen that invest and those that bet are not agitated by the election one way or the other, it seems. They know that nothing really big happened. Just a pendulum's swing.

Steinmetz, the scientist, who was beaten on the Socialist ticket in New York, as he knew he would be, tells the world that its main job just now is "to organize the supply and distribution of energy by electricity."

That is, indeed, today's big job. Organizing the supply and distribution of human decency and justice will come later.

Terrible News, Says Mrs. Astor When Women Lose

Copyright, 1922, by International News Service.

Plymouth, England, Nov. 9 (By International News Service).—"Terrible news," exclaimed Viscountess Astor, American born peeress and one of the two women members of the British House of Commons, when informed today that virtually all the women candidates had been defeated in the American congressional election.

"Yes, it is terrible. But I have too high an opinion of the intelligence of men and women voters in the United States to believe that the women were defeated because of their sex.

"Their qualities must have been weak. If they had had good progressive programs I am sure they would have won some seats. I regret the defeat of Miss Alice Robertson, but I am not surprised. She was too reactionary."

ACCUSED AND ACCUSER

JARDINE THOUGHT WARD SANE, BUT NERVOUS

time without any examination you expected her to come out any time? A.—Yes.

Q.—Is she better now than when she was put in? A.—About the same.

Q.—Was she in such condition that it would warrant you to think she would go back to school? A.—Yes, at that time.

Q.—Is she better now than when you put her in? A.—Yes, a little improved, but she gradually got worse after she was there a while. About ten weeks ago she started to get better.

CONSIDERED OTHER PLACES.

Q.—She started to get better, then, as soon as her uncle began to get active in this case? A.—She showed a little improvement.

Q.—When did you expect her to get well? A.—I can't tell that.

Mr. Jardine admitted he had considered sending Dorothy to a number of other places before deciding on McLean.

Q.—Didn't you know there were screaming women at McLean? A.—Yes.

Q.—Didn't you know what effect insane persons would have on a nervous girl? A.—No, not at that time.

Q.—Why was Dorothy taken there the last time? A.—For nervous trouble.

Q.—Not insanity, but nervous trouble? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you give Dorothy an accounting of her funds after January 31, 1921, when she became 21 years of age? A.—No.

Q.—You were supposed to, were you not? A.—Yes.

Q.—When did you expect to render her an accounting? A.—Right away.

Q.—You didn't? A.—No.

Q.—Why? A.—I can't say as to that.

SENT TO SEE DOCTOR.

Jardine admitted he had Dorothy examined by Dr. Samuel Crowell of Dorchester shortly before her commitment. He said he had sent her with his wife to see the physician.

Attorney Sheehan asked: Q.—You knew Dr. Crowell was not an alienist nor a mental expert? A.—Yes.

Q.—What tests did the doctor make? A.—I do not know.

Jardine described how Dr. Crowell made arrangements to take Dorothy to McLean by telephone from his house. He said he had not given letters to Dorothy which had come from her uncle.

After some questioning about Dorothy's courtship, Attorney Sheehan asked: "You knew if she married Newell that your guardianship would end? A.—Yes.

Q.—You knew if she sent o the Insane asylum that would prevent the marriage? A.—I know it now.

Q.—You knew it would terminate the affair with Newell? A.—Yes.

Jardine said Dorothy had told him his nephew, Ellis Jardine of Park street, Dorchester, had proposed marriage and that he had declared he would never consent to the wedding.

RETAIL FOOD COST SHOWS AN INCREASE

Washington, Nov. 9.—The retail cost of food increased between September 15 and October 15 in all of twenty-six representative cities from which statistics were compiled, the Department of Labor announced today. The increases ranged from less than one half of one per cent in Chicago and Milwaukee to four per cent in Philadelphia.

BALLOT WARNING STIRS OFFICIAL

City Clerk J. Clifford Entwisle of Salem is angry over a telegram from Frank H. Foss, chairman of the Republican State Committee.

"We rely on you," this telegram read, "to preserve and protect all ballots cast in the election Tuesday."

Entwisle said this cast unwarranted reflections on his official honesty. In a reply today he told Foss that the wire was insulting and ill-advised.

"If I was inclined to tamper with the ballots," he continued, "the admonition of your telegram would have had no effect. I am amazed at it."

CHICAGO SCHOOLS COMBAT 'PUPPY LOVE'

Chicago, Nov. 9.—As a measure to combat "puppy love" school romances, a resolution providing for a course of study in morals and civics in the elementary grades of the public schools has been adopted by the Board of Education.

CIGAR BOX CARS MUST GO, SAYS WAKEFIELD

Selectman Charles F. Young says the one-man car must get out of Wakefield.

He will make a motion at tonight's meeting of Selectmen that the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Company be prohibited from operating cars of this type in the town.

Mr. Young calls them "cigar boxes" and denounces them as dangerous to the public and inadequate to care for traffic.

The selectman is an overseas veteran. He rode in France in the crowded troops cars which bore the famous label: "40 hommes, 8 chevaux." Soldiers were packed in these troop cars in France like sardines.

But these cars in France, says Selectman Young, were not so crowded as the one-man affairs that the Eastern Massachusetts company operates through Wakefield.

FINDS 'KU KLUX' WARNING ON HIS STORE

Scrawled roughly in yellow paint, the legend "K. K. K., BEWARE. K. K. K.," greeted the eyes of Michael J. Lewis of No. 230 Highland avenue, Somerville, as he entered his new store at No. 387 Highland avenue today.

The doorknobs were daubed with yellow paint.

Mr. Lewis is inclined to think it was the work of boys. But he intends to take the matter up with the police.

"If it was by boys, I do not mind, but if an adult did that, I intend to push the matter to the limit," declared Mr. Lewis. I belong to no organizations, and I am at a loss to explain the painting."

REPUBLICANS MOVE FOR A STATE COUNT

The Republican City Committee today through Representative Frank H. Atwood, took out papers at City Hall for a recount of votes in Boston for United States Senator. The entire machinery of the Republican State Committee has also been set in motion for a recount in every city and town in the State.

INFECTION!
with it back to the wall!

A SHORT time ago a mother in Middletown, N. Y., while fondling her baby, was scratched on the lip by the infant's nails. Septic poisoning set in and in two days the mother was dead.

A woman in Sioux City was preparing a meal for her family when she cut a finger, slightly. Almost immediately infection set in, her arm began to swell and within a few days time she died.

In an Eastern city recently a boy was breaking pop-bottles on the street and cut his arm with glass. The wound was not properly sterilized and the boy died from blood poisoning.

Dangers of Blood Poisoning

These are a few of thousands of such cases. The smallest pin prick, cut or abrasion of the skin is a broad highway for the passage of virulent disease germs. Unless all wounds, no matter how trivial, are at once disinfected death may result. This fact is too well known for discussion. The question is: How can the infection of such wounds be prevented?

Tests by the Hygienic Laboratories of the U. S. Public Health Service show that most so-called "mild" antiseptics have no dependable germ-killing strength. Millions of dollars are spent every year for preparations that do nothing but foam splendidly at the time when you are depending upon them to destroy virulent germs.

Poisonous antiseptics, such as carbolic acid and bichloride of mercury, have been found to be of little practical value because when used at sufficient strength to kill germs they also destroy flesh and membrane. Diluted until they are safe to use they lack germ-killing power and are so irritating that they greatly retard healing. This was clearly demonstrated during the World War when over seventy per cent of all wounded men died from wound infection in spite of their use.

Deadly Infection Under Control

As a result of a tremendous war time need for an antiseptic which would prevent and check infection without further injuring torn flesh, two scientists developed an antiseptic which conquered infection almost immediately and did much toward winning the war.

It saved hundreds of thousands of lives in the Allied hospitals. Blood poisoning, gangrene, and other forms of devastating infection came under control. Soldiers who had been marked for death began returning to the front. It was like a miracle. The Carrel-Dakin solution, the great World War antiseptic, opened a new era in surgery.

Now Available for Home Use

Since the war chemists found a way to treat this matchless antiseptic and healing agent so that it could be had in bottle, in concentrated, stabilized, convenient form and at a very reasonable price. Zonite, as the antiseptic is called, is now available for home use. This means that humanity is at last provided with a mighty defense against infection and disease.

Zonite is absolutely non-poisonous. In germ-killing strength it is more than twice as great as pure carbolic acid and forty times as great as any solution of carbolic acid, bichloride of mercury and other poisonous compounds, which can be freely used with safety on the human body.

Zonite is being distributed to all druggists as rapidly as possible. It has a hundred uses in the home.

Facts About Zonite

When applied to a fresh cut or wound, Zonite destroys the germs which cause blood poisoning and other similar forms of infection.

Zonite heals cuts and wounds with astonishing rapidity and with little or none of the usual pain and inflammation.

Zonite is rapidly supplanting the old, weak, foaming and flavored antiseptics because they cannot be relied upon to destroy infection.

Zonite is replacing such poisons as bichloride of mercury, carbolic acid, iodine, etc., because experience in the war hospitals of France showed conclusively that they are inefficient, undependable or unsafe.

Zonite can be used as a gargle or spray in sufficient strength to destroy the germs which cause many contagious diseases. It will be of incalculable value during epidemics of childhood diseases.

MUNDELEIN AND HAYES TO BE CARDINALS

Rome, Nov. 9 (By the Associated Press). — Pope Pius has decided to postpone the appointment of the new American Cardinals to a consistory to be held next year. It was learned today.

The report that both Archbishop Mundelein of Chicago and Archbishop Hayes of New York would at that time receive the red hat, however, was confirmed in an authoritative quarter.

Archbishop Mundelein

Archbishop Hayes

Meanwhile notice has been sent to Monsignor Giovanni Bonzano, apostolic delegate at Washington, with regard to his being raised to the purple in the consistory to be held December 11. It is expected this notice will reach Monsignor Bonzano next week and that he will shortly afterward leave for Rome.

URGES OLD FORM COUNCIL FOR SALEM

Salem, Nov. 9.—For the purpose of bringing back the old-time form of city government, with a large number of councillors serving without pay, ex-Mayor Matthias J. O'Keefe of Salem today filed a petition in that city seeking an amendment to the City Charter. The petition, bearing 1,200 names, seeks an increase of membership in the City Council from the present number, 11, to 23.

ELOPES, LEAVING WIFE AND FOUR DESTITUTE

You'd feel pretty neglected, too, if your father ran away with another woman and her two little girls, wouldn't you? And it would be even worse if he left your mother with two months' bills unpaid, and drew out all the money in the bank before he went.

This is the problem of three plucky little girls, Marguerite, aged seven, Virginia, five, and Pauline, half past three, whose father Ercell E. Sherman, eloped with Mrs. Evelyn Telfer of No. 17 Abbott street, Medford.

In their little home at No. 18 Woodville terrace, Malden, the three girls and their delicate mother are making brave fight to keep up their courage. They have barely enough money in the house to buy sufficient food, and they are badly in need of fuel. Their rent is unpaid and they have no means of support.

Mrs. Blanche Foye of No. 59 Spring street, Medford, is raising a fund to aid the family. The girls are in need of Winter clothing and shoes. It is impossible for Mrs. Sherman to go out and earn a living for the children she loves so devotedly, because she has a two months' old baby and in delicate health as a result of the past months' privations.

Marguerite, Virginia and Pauline all have the whooping cough, and even the little sister Lorraine has caught it now and coughs pathetically in the cold kitchen where her crib is huddled close beside the almost fireless stove.

Before disappearing, almost a month ago, Sherman drew out all of the savings of the little family, collected $700 on the house he had contracted to build, sold his auto truck, and left the family only bills, sickness and trouble. Mrs. Telfer, with whom he is thought to have eloped, took her two children, telling her husband in a note that she had gone to her mother's.

Mrs. Sherman's thin, wistful face is sad and her courageous voice has no tone of hope when she speaks of her husband.

"I am tired of lying to myself and pretending that my husband meant well, and was just unfortunate. I would not take him back, but I pray every night that his manhood will assert itself and urge him to return and support his children," she said today.

POISONED WIFE GETS DIVORCE IN BROCKTON

Brockton, Nov. 9.—That her husband induced her to drink medicine intended for "external use only" and that he gave her and their child poisoned beans, was maintained by Mrs. Mary Butler, formerly of this city, while testifying in Superior Court.

Famous Dancer Tells How to End Foot-Burn and Corn-Misery

—Quickly, Without Plasters, Pads, Powders or Medicated Baths!

Use Gypsy Foot Relief

Walter Baker, famous and popular instructor of stage dancers, says:

"Having instructed most of our celebrated stage dancers, and knowing much about 'foot balm', I do not hesitate to say that Gypsy Foot Relief stands in a class by itself. And, when it comes to giving safe, quick relief, without fuss or bother!"

"If people knew how quick and thoroughly Gypsy Foot Relief ended the burning and pain and aches from pinched, blistered, calloused feet, corns and bunions, I am sure not a foot of theirs would go a day without it. I highly recommend the use of Gypsy Foot Relief to all dancers and people who are on their feet all day."

NOTE—Gypsy Foot Relief, recommended by Mr. Baker, is a soft, velvet-like, antiseptic, soothing substance—a remarkable secret from the desert. Take a little on the tip of your finger and rub it on a sore, burning, tender, aching, calloused spot, corn or bunion, then three minutes later walk, work, dance or stay on your feet as long as you please! The manufacturers guarantee successful results in every case, or refund the little it costs. It is sold in every city for all kind druggists.

About Money

Make Us Your "Home Savings Bank"

Buying furniture on our credit plan is just like building a house with the aid of a co-operative bank. The bank advances the money for that purpose, and in about the same way we finance your furniture, for by making a small deposit you can have delivered to your home the merchandise for which we have paid cash. And as you make your payments month after month, you are really banking money in your home.

We Save the Home

Should a purchaser die, we give a receipted bill on unpaid accounts up to $500 in accordance with agreement printed on the lease.

BLIND SOLDIER, LED BY CHILD, KILLS RIVAL

(By International News Service.)

Paris, Nov. 9.—A story of a wife stolen from a soldier who had sacrificed his sight for France upon the field of battle, and the murder of the man she had loved, was received here today from Avignon.

The wronged husband, Vincent Fabre, in his humble home in Avignon, takes the hand of his four-year-old daughter and whispers to her:

"Daughter, get my old army pistol out of the drawer. Are you sure it is loaded? Take my arm and lead me to the home of Joseph Audenham. When we get there, if you hear your mother's voice lead me directly in front of her. If she is not there, be sure to place me directly in front of Joseph Audenham."

Led by his little daughter, Fabre reached the home of his rival. His wife was not there. The daughter, obeying instructions, placed her father in front of Audenham. Fabre spoke. Audenham replied. Fabre fired. Audenham fell, dead.

The girl led her father back to his home, where he was arrested, repenting his act in the arms of his wife and daughter.

Fabre, with a subtle sense of the blind, noted a change in his wife's conduct and then neighbors confirmed his suspicions.

MISSING WIFE BALKS MATE'S NEW ROMANCE

On the efforts which are now being made to find Annie Scotten of Toronto, Ont., depends the romance of twenty-two-year-old William H. Denner of No. 62 N street, South Boston.

Donner, a war veteran, left his home and joined the navy because he could not marry his sweetheart, Miss Antonia Hamman of East Sixth street.

Annie Scotten

In 1919, when he left the service, Donner met Miss Scotten. He was married to her, and the two lived together for several months before they separated. Then Donner returned to Boston and met Miss Hamman, with whom he fell in love.

Because of his marriage, however, his family would not allow him to pay court to her. He now wishes to begin proceedings for annulment of the marriage.

DR. MANN NEW BISHOP OF PITTSBURGH

The Rev. Dr. Alexander Mann of Trinity Church, Boston, has been elected to succeed the late Bishop Cortlandt Whitehead of Pittsburgh. The election took place at the sixteenth ballot of delegates to the diocesan convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church in that city.

According to his friends here, he will accept. Three times before he has been tendered bishoprics and declined.

The Rev. E. J. Van Etten, rector of the Calvary Episcopal Church of Pittsburgh, will be the probable successor of Dr. Mann as rector of Trinity Church in Boston. For some time Dr. Van Etten served as Dr. Mann's assistant here. Dr. Van Etten is a graduate of Harvard and the Episcopal Theological School of Cambridge and an intimate friend of Bishop Lawrence, who ordained him.

Awards Wife $3,500 for Liquor Sold to Her Husband

Madison, Wis., Nov. 9.—Damages resulting from the consumption of intoxicating liquors may be collected by the injured person from the dispenser of the illicit liquor, the Wisconsin Supreme Court decided today in affirming a lower court award of $3,500 to Mrs. Helen Smithers of Fond du Lac County, for injury to her husband.

Justice Owen declared that disregard of the law by the dispenser of intoxicants justified severe treatment for him. He held that the $3,500 award to Mrs. Smithers was not excessive.

TEACHERS' PAY VICTORY AT POLLS DENIED

That the women school teachers of Boston have not scored a victory in the vote of 70,700 "Yes" to 67,584 "No" votes on the Teachers' "Equal Pay" referendum, is maintained by the Schoolmen's Economic Association.

The association's president points out that the law stipulates that in order for a "yes" vote to be effective in ordering the salons of the respective Boston districts to vote for the equal pay measure, the yes vote in each district must represent a majority of the total vote cast. This was only true in Wards 7 and 8. "Therefore the women have not secured their victory," the president declared.

STATE MOVES TO INDICT THREE IN JERSEY CHURCH TRAGEDY

"WOMAN IN GRAY COAT" FACES MURDER CHARGE

information concerning her husband's affair with Mrs. Mills to Mrs. Hall.

Gorsline's auto, known as the "choir car," was burned a few days after the murders.

Authorities were satisfied today they had the crime solved and were ready to ask for the indictments.

Deputy Attorney-General Wilbur A. Mott, in charge of the investigation; Prosecuting Attorney Asariah Beekman, of Somerset County, and Alfred C. Gibbs, foreman of the Somerset County Grand Jury, conferred at the Somerset County Courthouse for a final canvass of the most important parts of the testimony.

All were mum when they emerged.

"I cannot say a word," Mott said in reply to questions.

Asked if the case would go to the Grand Jury this week, Mott hesitated, then answered:

"I do not think so."

The alibis of Willie Stevens, a brother of Mrs. Hall, and another brother, Henry, have been strengthened and they are believed to be eliminated from the case.

It is stated that a "prominent member of the Church of St. John the Evangelist" was the slayer of Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills. This man, it is said, was spurred on by a woman. A second man aided these two to get away from the scene of the double crime at the Phillips farm. This is the basis of the State's case to be given the Somerset County Grand Jury.

These were the high points in the State's case as made known by an official who said the case was clinched in so far as evidence required for grand jury presentation is concerned.

It is believed that the indicting body will not be summoned before Monday, and that three or four days will be required to hear the twenty-five witnesses.

It is not believed he saw the murder committed, but the authorities think he took the woman, who was dressed in gray, and the murderer, to De Russy's lane, near the farm, and waited for them in an automobile after the crime.

The revelations to be made public following the grand jury investigation will constitute one of the most remarkable crimes on record.

Eliminating only the names of the guilty persons, here is the story of the crime, as related by one associated with the prosecution:

The clandestine love of Dr. Hall for his choir singer became known to various members of his congregation. Two months before they were killed the love was common gossip among certain members of the congregation. It was known they had a place where they left letters for each other. It is known that these letters were intercepted and read.

LOVE LETTERS ARE FOUND.

The theory is that members of the choir or other active workers in the church who were envious of the attentions Mrs. Mills received from the rector spied upon the couple, discovered their private postoffice in the church and thus learned the strength of the rector's pass on for Mrs. Mills and her reciprocal affection.

Others than the wife of Dr. Hall read these epistles for some time before the murders.

Two months before Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills were found killed Mrs. Hall was informed of her husband's affair with the choir singer by an informer in the congregation.

It is known that Mrs. Hall went to Mrs. Mills shortly thereafter and reproached her, saying: "Mrs. Mills, you are making my life very unhappy." This despite Mrs. Hall's repeated statements that she never knew of her husband's relations with Mrs. Mills.

Mrs. Hall's statement that she had never been at the Phillips farm is also refuted, the prosecution alleges.

Mrs. Mills wrote her last burning love letter to Dr. Hall on the afternoon before the murder. The authorities believe this letter never reached Hall. One of the men in the congregation stole it from its hiding place on Thursday and gave it to a woman of the congregation. She, in turn, took it to another woman who was jealous of the couple.

MADE FATAL TRYST.

None of the trio suspected of complicity in the murder had any intention of following Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills to their last fatal rendezvous until after the rector and choir singer left their homes at about 7:30 p. m. on the night of the murder.

Neither Hall nor Mrs. Mills intended to meet that night. They did so only after they found that Mrs. Mills' letter had been intercepted. Shortly before he left his home Hall got a telephone message from Mrs. Mills.

She warned him the letter had been stolen. He was heard to say "That's too bad." Louise Geist, a servant, has testified that he made an appointment with Mrs. Mills for 8:15 o'clock.

That telephone conversation was listened to. Then, after Hall and Mrs. Mills left their homes, the two men and a woman dressed in gray—like three persons to be indicted—motored in an automobile to the Phillips farm. The car was driven by the man who stole the letters and turned them over to the woman.

This takes the story up to the point that Mrs. Mary Gibson, riding her mule, Jenny, along De Russy lane, saw the woman in gray, her male companion and an old model automobile with its lights out in the headlight of an automobile which swung into the lane and then backed out again to swing in the direction of New Brunswick.

SLAIN GOING HOME.

Hall and Mrs. Mills, the story of the prosecution continues, had met at the abandoned Phillips farmhouse. They were walking to De Russy lane, on their way home, when the woman in gray and her companion intercepted them.

The four persons, in animated argument, started walking across a field in the direction of a crabapple tree, under which the bodies were found two days later. Mrs. Gibson has related how she heard men and women wrangling. The rector and the choir singer were attempting to deny their relations. Mrs. Gibson heard a woman's voice, pitched in hysteria, demand:

"Then how do you explain these notes?".

This was followed by more wrangling, and then shots.

The murder occurred at 10:20 o'clock. Mrs. Gibson, frightened, left the scene immediately. She returned about 1 o'clock. In the moonlight she saw the woman in gray, bending over the two bodies, sobbing.

WOMAN INSPIRED CRIME.

The man accused of the actual murder will be indicted on a charge of murder in the first degree. The woman in grey will also be indicted on a charge of murder in the first degree, on the ground that her presence at the scene and her participation in the struggle preceding the killing made her accomplice in the crime.

The third person to be indicted is, as are the other two, a member of the congregation of Dr. Hall's church, the Protestant-Episcopal Church of St. John the Evangelist.

This man is to be indicted as an accessory after the fact. He figures as the Iago in the tragedy of jealousy and murder. He is believed to have gone to the Phillips farm on the night of the murder in order to see the results of his machinations. He did not see the murders committed, but took the woman in grey and the murderer to the lane and waited for them in an automobile until after the crime.

This man is accused of a most flagrant refusal to give the authorities information of which he was possessed. He has repeatedly insisted he was not at the scene of the crime, which he has been proved the night it was committed, yet, the authorities allege, he has been privy to its

Ready! our new machine

Remington No. 12

"The Quiet Typewriter"

"The sum of typewriter merit," is a strong statement, but we make it advisedly. The new No. 12 Remington contains every feature and every quality that the typewriter user has always wanted.

Remington strength and reliabilty—in full measure.

"Natural Touch"—which gives a speed and ease of operation which is a revelation to every typist.

Good work—and always good work—insured by features which prevent mis-operation.

The Self-Starter, or automatic indenter, that exclusive Remington feature, which saves nearly a minute per letter in typing time.

And added to all these, a degree of silence in operation which insures the quiet desired in every business office.

The new Remington No. 12 sells for $110—$7.50 more than our standard correspondence machine—a $7.50 premium for quiet.

You will want this new Remington in your office for the surpassing quality of its work.

Your typist will want it for its "natural touch"—which makes the day's work swift and easy.

Now on demonstration.

scream as she fell into the 40 feet of water.

SISTER CALLS AID.

She ran to the well and saw Virginia struggling in the water. Josephine called for help, and Mott, Reardon and Thompson responded. All are employes of the H. S. Mott hat factory nearby.

Mott and Reardon held Robinson by his feet as, head down, he went into the well. The distance between the top of the well and the water is about seven feet. Robinson, the tallest of the trio, was just able to grasp the child's hair as she was a few inches below the surface of the water.

SINKING THIRD TIME.

She was sinking for the third time when she felt herself being lifted from the water.

Once her head was above water, Robinson, who is powerful as well as tall, changed his hold so that he had the child by the shoulders. Gingerly he effected the ascent of the well, dragging Virginia with him.

After stimulants were administered by a physician the little girl was put to bed to sleep off her exhaustion. She was none the worse for her almost fatal experience. She promised to stay far away from that well in the future.

SLIDE AT CULEBRA, BUT NOT A BAD ONE

Panama, Nov. 9.—John D. Claybourne, assistant engineer of the dredging division of the canal, says that a slight movement of earth had occurred northwest of Culebra, but that no interruption of traffic through the canal was expected. As a precautionary measure necessary equipment has been taken to the scene of the slide, which is near old Culebra Village.

FORMER BOSTON BANK CLERK DIES IN SALEM

Salem, Nov. 9.—John C. Flint, a former clerk in the Union Bank, Boston, died today of heart trouble in his home, No. 13 Summer street. He was sixty-two years old, and had retired. He served as city councilor for several years. He leaves a widow.

Miss Percival Makes Debut in Society at Tea Today, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN.

UNDOUBTEDLY is this the "day"—and evening, too—of the debutante. And despite the large numbers of charity bazaars, balls and dansants, the bud coterie is holding its own very nicely.

Today's debutante is Miss Elizabeth Percival of Commonwealth avenue, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. David C. Percival, are introducing her at a tea at the Country Club. In the evening they are giving a dance for her. The Percivals, who Summer at Marblehead Neck, are well known in yachting circles along the North Shore, where Mr. Percival is commodore of the Corinthian Yacht Club. Elizabeth Percival, too, I understand, takes after her father, and is quite an ardent sailor.

SPEAKING of presentations, a gay crowd of young folk attended the double debut of the Misses Katherine and Dorothy Hill, which took place Wednesday afternoon at the Hotel Somerset.

It was, in a way, rather an unusual affair, for Miss Katherine Hill, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Fremont Hill, is the aunt of her sister-bud, Miss Dorothy Hill, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Percy Vickery Hill.

A charming gown of white velvet, with a girdle of silver and roses, softly shaded in pink and blue, was worn by Miss Katherine Hill. Miss Dorothy Hill's frock was of pale blue chiffon, trimmed with crystal beads. Receiving with them were their respective mothers, Mrs. John Hill wearing a gown of lavender brocade, and Mrs. Percy Hill most becomingly gowned in black velvet with silver.

The affair was a tea dance held in the ballroom of the Somerset, and about eighteen of the two debutantes' former classmates at the Winsor School poured for them. The decorations consisted chiefly of the masses of gorgeous flowers with which their friends had showered the two buds in honor of the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Vickery Hill, by the way, have taken apartments at the Copley-Plaza for the Winter, their year-round home being in Augusta, Me. The home of the John Fremont Hills is at No. 284 Beacon street.

MR. AND MRS. WILSON S. DUNN have left their country place at Ipswich and have returned to their Winter residence in New York at No. 17 East Eleventh street.

HOT SPRINGS seems to be an irresistible Mecca these days, and everyone is either going down there or returning from there.

Miss Rose Lee Saltonstall, who left the Southern resort a few days ago, rode the trails almost every day during her sojourn there. Since Rose Saltonstall has been making her headquarters in New York, Boston sees her only when she comes here to visit with their mother, Mrs. Philip L. Saltonstall of Chestnut Hill.

MR. AND MRS. MAXIMILIAN AGASSIZ have been spending a few days in New York at the Hotel Chatham, coming to Gotham from Newport. It was a year ago last September that Boston society learned with some surprise of Mr. Agassiz's marriage to Mrs. Laura Maynes Boyd. The wedding took place at Concord, N. H. The Agassizes have a Boston home on Marlboro street.

MR. AND MRS. ROGER L. SCAIFE (Ethel Bryant) of Milton are visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Chester French at their country place in Stockbridge, known as "Chesterwood." Mr. French, the widely-known sculptor, and his wife are among the most prominent Summer residents in the Berkshires, where they do much to create an interest in art.

OTHER Boston visitors in the Berkshires are Mrs. Frederick L. W. Richardson, Miss Amy N. Cabot and Mrs. Albert F. Higelow, who are stopping at the Red Lion Inn, Stockbridge.

MISS MARY ATKINSON, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Atkinson of Brookline, is of the smart group who have taken tables for the charity dansant this afternoon at the Copley-Plaza. The dansant is only one of the features of the all-day bazaar which the Women's Municipal League is holding at the hotel, and for which a large number of the smart set are working. The bazaar opens at 10. At noon luncheon will be served; at 2:30 there is a vaudeville entertainment in the upper ballroom, and at 4:30 comes the much-heralded dansant, with a competition dance at 5 o'clock.

BOY FINDS BULLET; DOCTORS HELP HIM

Antonio Delmont, 14 years old, of No. 1 Lynn street, North End, was engaged in healthful recreation at the Morton street playgrounds today. Antonio found a bullet in the course of his pursuits. He placed the bullet upon a rock. Then with equal prankishness, he dropped another and larger rock upon it. At the Relief Hospital physicians extracted a lead slug from Antonio's knee.

MAYOR WOULD END WORK OF FIN. COM.

twenty years to help pull down the city debt.

He advocated taxation of bonds now exempt, further to reduce the debt.

MAYOR'S DEMANDS.

He asked abolition of the right of the Massachusetts Civil Service Commission to pass on appointments by the Mayor.

He called the Finance Commission "purely political," and is no sense constructive.

The Licensing Board he scored as source of income for "lame ducks."

The Mayor said:

"The city of Boston seeks relief from a burden, the imposition of which is not justified and continuance of which constitutes the rankest character of discrimination.

"Every municipality in the State except Boston enjoys the privilege of determinging its own tax limit. We demand that the imposition, which is both unjust and humiliating, be ended.

"The Boston city government has a profound realization of the fact it is a creature of the State like every other municipality. But it demands to be considered as a legitimate child, rather than treated as an unnatural offspring. It is unjust to compel the city to appear annually before the Legislature like a mendicant.

HITS "BUREAUCRACY."

The Mayor said the expenditure of $40,000 a year to maintain the Finance Commission was not required of any other city in the State. He went on:

"The Finance Commission is not only repugnant to the principle of democracy but in view of the fact that the purposes of the commission is purely political, it is an exceedingly distasteful example of bureaucracy.

"The Licensing Board, another example of bureaucracy, serves a most useful purpose in providing a profitable source of income to a group of lame ducks who duplicate the work, in part, at present performed by the Licensing Bureau of Boston. Annual expenditure of $35,000 could be saved by abolition of this board.

"The selection by the Mayor of Boston of competent men for department heads is made difficult by the refusal of men who are qualified in many cases to accept appointment because of injury that may result to their reputation in consequences of a rejection by the Massachusetts Civil Service Commission."

"The trial of the Tufts case in Suffolk County cost the city about $60,000," said Mayor Curley. "There was no reason why the case should not have been tried in Middlesex County. The law should be changed so that cases shall be tried in the counties where they originate."

NEWS WRITERS AT FUNERAL OF A. T. BROWNE

Attended by city and county officials, men prominent in the professional life and by scores of neighbors, final rites for Arthur T. Browne, veteran Boston American reporter, who dropped dead at the American Legion football game at Cambridge, Sunday, were conducted in the North Congregational Church, Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge.

The Rev. Lawrence R. Howard, pastor of the church and a close friend of the deceased, officiated.

A delegation from Mount Olivette lodge of Masons of Cambridge performed the Masonic ritual services at the church.

The pallbearers, all newspapermen and associates of Mr. Browne, were: Harry A. Benwell, George R. Sargent, Ralph R. Stratton, Leslie G. Ainley, William D. Cleary and Joseph D. Harrington.

The ushers at the church, all members of Cambridge lodge of Elks, were: Timothy Danehy, Captain Fred M. Ellis, Edward E. McGanity, Thadeus Flynn, William Achison and Henry Pitts.

The burial was in the family lot in Mount Auburn cemetery.

DREAM SAVES 60 FROM FLAMES

New York, Nov. 9.—A woman's dream is credited with saving the lives of sixty dwellers in a tenement in the Bronx early today.

Mrs. Jessie Barotti dreamed of flames leaping through the house, and of muffled footsteps creaking down the hallways. She awoke screaming "The house is afire."

Her husband got up, went down the hall, and found a fire blazing near the door of the apartment where slept the wife and six children of a policeman. The alarm was spread and the 60 tenants escaped.

MISSOURI DEMOCRAT VICTORY INCREASES

St. Louis, Nov. 9 (By the Associated Press).—The Democrats of Missouri scored a sweeping victory by electing, in addition to Senator Reed, eleven of the sixteen Congressmen, a gain of nine, the State superintendent of schools, all three judges of the State Supreme Court, twelve of the seventeen State Senators and a large majority of the 150 State legislators. Reed's early lead has been cut to $3,000.

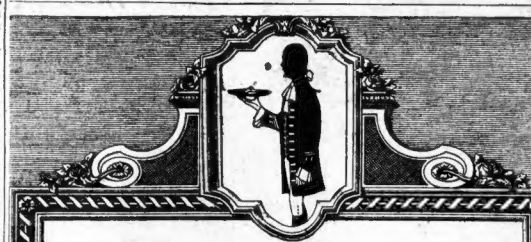
On the street floor you will find blouses, scarfs, sweaters; on the second floor dresses for women and misses; and the coats, wraps, suits, skirts are on the third floor.



Once a Year

Friends are the treasures you gather through the years. Some you see often. Others may live beneath the Southern Cross or make the austere mountains of the North their abiding place. But at some time their ways have traveled with yours long enough to form that precious thing—a friendship.

Your thoughts stray to them at different times. A day by the river recalls a friend made the summer you camped. A night at the opera reminds you of that musician from Russia. A well-thumbed book suggests the evening spent by the open fire with the person who gave it to you.

At Christmas time you think of them all. For then the spirit of love and friendship rules the world. You long to have them know you are thinking of them and to wish them well. So you send a personal greeting card. A tiny bit of color suggests the season's cheer, and a simple message conveys your affectionate thought.

We have a very complete collection of personal greeting cards and booklets for Christmas and the New Year. We suggest that you make your selection early.

ATTWILL PRESENTS FOUR PLANS TO BOOST RAILROAD EARNINGS

OPPOSES REDUCING WAGES

Strongly Endorses Hearst Editorial on "Living Wage" at Transportation Hearing

William Randolph Hearst's "Living Wage" editorial, recently printed in the Boston American and other Hearst newspapers, was indorsed by the Massachusetts Public Utilities Commission, in presenting recommendations regarding the New England railroad situation to the Massachusetts and New England Railroad Commissions.

"I agree with the Hearst editorial," Mr. Attwill said, "that you do not increase consumption or business generally by reducing wages.

"The difficulties of the railroads will not be solved and cannot be solved as long as they are operated by private capital unless it is granted sufficient [illegible] to attract capital. This cannot and must not be left to the caprice of the regulating bodies in the matter of passenger and freight rates.

"Moreover, you don't reduce expenses if you reduce the pay of workmen, as we are now receiving $50 a week where we formerly received $40, and it results in the necessity of employing an additional man at $40."

PLAN IS OPPOSED.

Mr. Attwill's plan of increasing revenue by charges for "spotting" cars on private sidings, increased mail and express compensation, and charges for carrying baggage met strong opposition from Colonel Charles R. Gow, president of the Associated Industries of Massachusetts, and Edgar J. Rich, former chief counsel of the Boston & Maine.

"I predict a period of competition greater than any other ever suffered in this country," said Mr. Rich. "Facilities are inadequate. New England needs a liberal program for expansion in the [illegible] years.

"Fundamentally we need service. We can't have service without facilities, and we can't have facilities without capital. To get the capital we must have credit.

"Our New England railroad system has got to be made attractive to the investors and the only way to accomplish this is to formulate the plan for an all-New England system and link with outside lines."

Other speakers at the hearing, which is being held in the State House were President Snyder of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, R. L. French, president of the New England Industrial Traffic League; W. H. Dow, Jr. of Dow, F. G. Shuttleworth, Brockton, representing the New England Shoe and Leather Association; R. G. Rodgers of Fitchburg, Joseph A. Lovell of Worcester, R. F. Johnson of Haverhill, Charles M. Cox of St. Albans, Vt., Chairman Abbott P. Smith of the New England Joint Committee on Foreign and Domestic Commerce, and J. W. Powell of Boston.

James J. Storrow, chairman of the Railroad Commission, said the public hearing will continue three days.

"Salome," which was to have been produced next week by the San Carlo Opera Company at the Boston Opera House, has been barred as immoral by John M. Casey, chairman of the City Licensing Committee.

CHINESE REBELS CAPTURE AMOY

Amoy, China, Nov. 8 (By the Associated Press).—A sudden attack by the military faction headed by Chang Tso-Peng against Li Hao-Chi, who has the support of the Peking government, threw the city into a panic. It took refuge in flight after Chang had seized his headquarters.

All the native schools are closed, business is paralyzed, the foreign settlement is crowded with Chinese refugees from the native quarter and American and British gunboats, lying close inshore, are protecting foreign interests.

TO START FIGHT IN CONGRESS FOR BEER

Washington, Nov. 9.—Proposals for legislation modifying the Volstead Act with respect to the sale of beer and light wines were regarded today at the Treasury Department as extremely likely, as a result of the outcome of Tuesday's election.

In the meantime, however, Secretary Mellon was reported as holding that the Treasury's policy of strict enforcement of the prohibition laws would continue unchanged, despite the expression of public opinion in different States, until Congress acts.

To Miss Marion Vaughan of Brookline, associate editor of the publication, is given the lion's share of the work, for she will help with the literary as well as the artistic ends of the book.

Salem, Nov. 8.—Lester Goodwin of No. 14 Norman street, fell down the attic stairs at his home. His head struck a sharp corner, tearing off his left ear.

MELLON FAVORS LETTING ALIEN LABORERS IN

Washington, Nov. 9.—The proposal to modify immigration restrictions in order to provide the country with a greater labor supply has the approval of Secretary Mellon, it was said today at the Treasury, although the Secretary believes some means of selection should be devised so that more laborers might enter the country without a corresponding increase of other classes of immigrants.

Rising tides of prosperity in the country according to Mr. Mellon's views, has caused a labor shortage which could be met by such a modification in the law. The labor shortage is held by him to be in a large measure responsible for high prices.

The sudden disappearance of the [illegible] caused anxiety among her friends as the result of a recent letter to one of them, in which Mrs. Hammerstein wrote that some day she would be found dead as her husband grave [illegible] was found by a benefactor, recently, in the lodging house as "Mrs. Jones."

DOUBLE BILL AT SAN CARLO OPERA

Large audiences rule at the Boston Opera House where the San Carlo Opera Company is performing. Yesterday there were two performances, "Tales of Hoffman" in the afternoon, and "Tosca" in the evening. The Offenbach masterpiece introduced Lucchese as the singing doll, De Nieste in the contralto role, and Valle as the minister Dr. Miracle.

The evening performance brought forth Anna Fitziu as Floria Tosca, a role for which she is admirably suited. Valle again, how this baritone does work, singing at every performance so far this week, and Salazar [illegible] It was a stirring and spirited performance. Write your name and address plainly on the coupon below and hand it to any one of the druggists listed in this advertisement. He will hand you without cost a full-sized 10-cent tube of the Listerine Tooth Paste—the original fruit acid dentifrice.

Made by the makers of Listerine

Fifty years ago the manufacturers of Listerine perfected their safe antiseptic. It has grown steadily in popularity ever since. Now these same manufacturers have perfected for you a really safe and efficient dentifrice—a tooth paste that works in Nature's own way to preserve your teeth, makes them gleam whiter and brighter than they ever have before, and keeps your gums normal and healthy. Into it they have incorporated the same essential oils that have made Listerine so efficient as a safe antiseptic.

What fruit acids do for teeth

Listerine Tooth Paste also contains the mild fruit acid elements of apple, grape, grapefruit and oranges.

These fruit acids encourage an extra flow of the alkaline saliva which Nature provides to fight tooth decay. You will notice how Listerine Tooth Paste makes your mouth water when you brush your teeth.

A really safe polishing agent

Moreover, in perfecting this tooth paste its makers have selected just the right cleansing ingredient. It is easy to find a polishing agent that effectively removes the daily formations of tartar. But usually it is so harsh and gritty that it is unsafe.

In Listerine Tooth Paste there is no bit of grit. The polishing agent used is actually softer than tooth enamel—yet harder than tartar. So it becomes the ideal and efficient cleanser, but still cannot injure the teeth.

Enjoy this new tooth-cleaning pleasure

Get your free sample of this delicious dentifrice and see how its effects will delight you. Note how the appearance of your teeth will improve and the healthier condition your gums will show.

But redeem your coupon this week!

Don't neglect, however, to call for your free 10-cent tube this week. The offer expires on Saturday. Fill out the coupon today and take it to your druggist.

Listerine Tooth Paste
—the paste that's right

Because it contains mild fruit acids to simulate Nature's flow of alkaline saliva to combat tooth decay;

because it contains the correct polishing agent—hard enough to remove tartar but not hard enough to injure tooth enamel. Watch how it whitens and brightens your teeth;

because it contains the healing antiseptic essential oils contained in Listerine—

G.O.P. CONTROL OF CONGRESS ASSURED

New York, Nov. 9. (By the Associated Press).—Whether the Republicans will have six or seven votes over the necessary majority of 218 for control of the House of Representatives, probably will not be known until tomorrow. One district, the Third, Kansas, is delayed. With this district missing the Republican strength is 224, Democratic 207, Socialist 1, Farmer-Labor 1 and Independent 1.

In North Dakota, C. M. Young second district, and J. H. Sinclair third district, both Republicans, are elected.

In West Virginia, George W. Johnson, fourth district, and Congressman Lilly, fifth district, both Democrats, are elected.

R. Scott Leavitt, Republican, is elected in Montana.

Latest figures show the next Senate will have 52 Republicans, 41 Democrats and 1 Farmer-Labor representative with results of two contests, one in Washington and the other in North Dakota, undecided.

Belated Montana returns sent the Republicans over the top in the House contest.

Election of R. Scott Leavitt, Republican, in Montana, gave the Republicans two more than the 218 votes necessary to control the next House, but even these tidings were coupled with news of defeat of Representative McCormick, Republican, of Montana, by his Democratic opponent, John M. Evans.

In the returns to date, seventy-six places now held by Republicans had been captured without a single counterbalancing Democratic loss.

KING AND JONES WIN.

They brought word, however, of the definite re-election of Senator King, Democrat, of Utah, over Ernst Bamberger, Republican, of Senator Jones, Democrat, of New Mexico, and of another Democratic victory in Montana where Burton K. Wheeler was elected over Carl W. Riddick, Republican, to succeed Senator Myers, Democrat.

Only two senatorial contests remained greatly in doubt, those in Washington, where former Representative Dill, Democrat, was leading Senator Poindexter, Republican, and in North Dakota, where the Democratic candidate, J. F. T. O'Connor was with a waning majority as more rural returns came in, leading former Governor Lynn J. Frazier, Republican. Non-Partisan League leaders were claiming ultimate Frazier's election.

STEENERSON BEATEN.

Late returns also brought news of the defeat of another Republican veteran of the House, Representative Halvor Steenerson of Minnesota, chairman of the postoffice committee, by a Farmer-Laborite, Knud Wefald. This gave the Farmer-Labor party representation in both branches of Congress for the first time, Dr. Henrik Shipstead, Farmer-Laborite, having defeated Senator Kellogg in Minnesota.

Ferris Will Demand Newberry Be Unseated

Big Rapids, Mich., Nov. 9.—Woodbridge N. Ferris his election assured by an increasing majority, announced that his first act after being sworn as United States Senator would be to move to unseat Senator Truman H. Newberry.

"We can get him out of there," said Ferris.

"The first chance I get I shall demand a rehearing of the case.

"Newberryism was the dominant note in this campaign, despite the efforts of the Republicans to conceal the fact and to avoid the issue. There must be an end to the excessive expenditure of money in securing public office and the unseating of Newberry will mark a big advance in this direction."

DuPont Seeks Recount in Delaware

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 9.—The Republican State committee of Delaware today was expected to ask for a recount in the contest for the United States Senate because of the small margin of votes Thomas F. Bayard Democrat, polled over the Republican incumbent, T. Coleman Dupont. With the complete but unofficial returns showing a majority of only 563 for Bayard the Dupont forces refused to concede the election.

VETERAN DEFEATS ENEMY OF BONUS

Wooster, O., Nov. 9.—Captain John MacSweeney, thirty-two-year-old veteran of the war, defeated Congressman Joseph H. Himes in the 16th District by approximately 2,000 votes. Himes was the only Ohio Congressman to vote against the bonus and to sustain the President's veto of that measure.

DEMOCRAT ELECTED COLORADO GOVERNOR

Denver, Nov. 9.—With only thirty scattered precincts missing out of 1,485 in the State, William E. Sweet, Democrat, apparently has been elected Governor of Colorado over Benjamin Griffith, Republican, by approximately 4,000 votes.

"Bat" Understudy

KATHERINE OSTERMAN
(Photo by Bayer.)

It's eight years since Katherine Osterman retired from the stage, but there are thousands of theatregoers who remember pleasantly her charm in such farces as "What Happened to Jones," and other comedies in which she starred with Anna Belmont.

As Mrs. J. J. Rosenthal she has been in touch with the show business, however, as her husband is one of the best known managers and advance men in the profession.

At present Mr. Rosenthal is manager of "The Bat," and the reason for this article is that Wagenhals and Kemper, owners of that production, upon finding out that Mrs. Rosenthal is spending the Winter in Boston with her husband, have appointed her as general understudy.

In case Effie Ellsler, the old lady of the piece, May Vokes, the servant girl, or Alice Morrison, the heroine, should sustain any of their toes and fail to appear at a performance, Katherine Osterman will return to the stage in any of these roles.

"But don't think I'm trying to break into the acting profession again," declares Mrs. Rosenthal. "As the mother of a boy old enough to be a headliner in vaudeville, I am definitely upon the sidelines, except in case of emergency." Jack Osterman, son of the Rosenthals, took his mother's maiden name when he broke into the show business.

ATHENS TELLS OF MASSACRE BY TURKS

Athens, Nov. 9. (By International News Service).—Turks are attacking and slaughtering Greek refugees upon the Island of Samos, the Greek government charged today. The roadways are said to be choked with corpses.

London, Nov. 9 (By the Associated Press).—The situation in Constantinople is described as somewhat easier in a message received today by the War Office.

Although no information was vouchsafed by the War Office outside from the fact that one British soldier had been killed, it was intimated the message contained assurance the Turks were inclined to modify their demand that the Allies quit Constantinople.

Officials refused to state by what route the message had been transmitted, in view of the cutting of the cable near Chanak by the Turks, but it is thought it must have come by wireless, by way of Cairo, or by relay from British warships in Near East waters.

It is stated the British attitude is not likely to be modified as a result of the killing of the soldier because our attitude is stiff enough any way."

Russia Demands Full Vote at Peace Parley

London, Nov. 9. (By International News Service, by radio).—Russia is suspicious of the part the Allies will play in the Near East peace conference, it was plainly stated in a protesting note received from Moscow today.

Russia demands full participation in the conference with a vote on all issues. In support of the demand it was pointed out that Japan and Rumania had been invited with full powers.

The note said that Russia is opposed to the Allied Powers keeping Turkey under their tutelage.

Americans Quit Business as Turks Close Banks

Smyrna, Nov. 9 (By the Associated Press).—Commerce is completely paralyzed throughout Asia Minor. One by one the banks of Smyrna are closing. The Kemalists have sealed the vaults of most of the banking institutions because two would not furnish lists of Greek and Armenian accounts.

Several American tobacco companies have suspended operations and are preparing to transfer their stocks to the United States.

The only American firm continuing to do business is the Standard Oil Company whose products are paid for by the Turks in Bolshevik gold.

Mussolini Urges United Front Against Turks

Rome, Nov. 9 (By the Associated Press).—Premier Mussolini has telegraphed to the Italian high commissioner in Constantinople stating that he favored a united front by the allies regarding Turkey. Turkey had beaten Greece but could not claim to have defeated the entente, the Premier said.

The Italian warship Archimede was ordered by the Premier to remain at Constantinople and he gave instructions that in case of necessity other vessels should be held in readiness.

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS

Washington — Congress will be asked for a deficiency appropriation of $42,000,000 to pay claims arising from taxes illegally collected by the government.

WOODHOUSE IGNORED HIS MOTHER ON WEDDING DAY

DRY AGENT KIDNAPS AUTOISTS

Wild Ride at Sixty Miles an Hour Ends as Machine Turns Turtle

Portsmouth, N. H., Nov. 9—For more than four hours Mrs. Evelyn Sidebottom prayed for her life as a maniac drove her over country roads at sixty miles an hour.

The car turned turtle, Mrs. Sidebottom and two companions, whose names have been suppressed, were pinned underneath. The driver, Thomas P. Hayes, prohibition agent, escaped.

Previously the officer had "kidnaped" the trio after having caused the arrest of the fourth member of their party, Charles Healy, accused of operating an automobile under the influence of liquor.

KIDNAPED PARTY.

Today Mrs. Sidebottom, still suffering from shock and bruises, told her story to the Boston American.

"We were riding near Hampton," she said. "Some police officers jumped in the road. We stopped. This Hayes and another prohibition man searched our machine. They took Charles to the police station. Then we started home.

"We had gone but a short distance outside Hampton when we heard a machine coming back of us. It whizzed past, stopped and Hayes got out. He made us get in his car and leave our own.

PRAYED FOR HER LIFE.

"Then began the most terrifying experience of my life. We sped over the road at sixty and more miles an hour, according to his speedometer, I prayed for life. After about four and a half hours came the accident. Then everything was black."

J. R. Lewis, director of the dry agents, is here making an investigation.

HEN INTERNED, LAYS EGG ON POLICE DESK

Patrolman Leonard of the Joy Street Station saw George Kelley, of Elm street, Charlestown, walking along with a suspicious bulge in front

He found that the bulge moved and cackled.

It was a hen. Leonard took Kelley to the Joy Street Station. There Kelley was interviewed by Captain McDevitt, the while the chicken was locked up in the captain's office

"I was walking along near the South Station," Kelley said, "when this hen ran up to me. It was blowing pretty cold, and she had a piteous look in her face. I picked her up and put her under my coat to protect her. I love hens and I can't bear to see them suffer."

While Mr. Kelley was taken to Municipal Court to be arraigned, the hen remained in Captain McDevitt's office. The captain entered his office a couple of hours later. The hen was seated on his desk, on top of a number of police reports. He shooed her away.

There, in the middle of the batch of papers, was a nice egg.

MOTORCYCLE SKIDS; REVERE MAN INJURED

George Bushey, Washington street, Revere, is in a critical condition at the Chelsea Memorial Hospital as a result of being thrown from his motorcycle on Malden street, Revere. According to the Revere police, Bushey was speeding up Malden street, towards Malden. His motorcycle skidded and plunged into a field. He was thrown from his machine, which landed on top of him, cutting and bruising him in several places.

Listen! Curley Has Spoken to Lomasney

Mayor Curley and Martin M. Lomasney spoke to each other today.

Chairman Edward T. Kelley of the Board of Accessors was urging a wheel tax on autos, when Lomasney interrupted him saying:

"The industry pays a couple of taxes now. That looks like triple taxation. What do you think about a license fee or tax on garages?"

Mayor Curley, sitting across the table from Lomasney, spoke up saying:

"Mr. Lomasney, we have made some progress in that direction and I will ask Mr. Kelley to explain it."

That was all.

MEDFORD MAN TO GET FRENCH HERO MEDAL

John J. Medlin of Medford is about to be awarded a gold medal for bravery from the French government for heroic work while on board the Cranford, belonging to the Steele Company, when the crew worked over twenty-four hours at a stretch rescuing passengers and crew of the sinking French vessel "The Victorieux."

Medlin is an employe of the O'Sullivan Rubber Heel Co., and lives at No. 8 Brookings street, Medford, with his parents. He is twenty-four years old and was also the hero of the East Boston fire of a year ago when the Standard Oil Co.'s boat, the Astral, burned.

MRS. UNTERMYER TO WED FILM STAR

Los Angeles, Nov. 9.—Mrs. Alvin Untermyer, divorced wife of the son of Samuel Untermyer, will soon become the bride of Elliott Dexter, film star. If rumors around Hollywood are correct.

Mrs. Alvin Untermyer

Mrs. Untermyer is at present in the East, but she is expected to return to Los Angeles within a few days. Upon her return it is expected that there will be some interesting announcements. Mr. Dexter is silent in regard to the matter, but his friends are convinced that a wedding is in view.

HE WORKED ALL NIGHT AT BIG BOSTON FIRE

Richard A. Stack, superintendent of the Boston American Building has a keen recollection of the great Boston fire, through having played an active part in fighting it. He was only sixteen years old at the time.

"The Saturday night the fire broke out," said Mr. Stack, "a number of other boys and myself were hanging around the ladder truck house at Harrison avenue and Ware ham street.

"The horses of the ladder truck were sick, and the firemen asked for volunteers to haul the apparatus. All the kids volunteered, and we hauled the truck down to Summer street, a short distance below where the Boston American Building now stands.

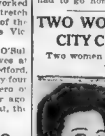
"Hundreds of volunteers were assisting in getting the merchadise out of the stores. I joined them, and the first place I went into was a hardware store on Summer street, near Lincoln.

"We took out the goods and loaded them on wagons, and they were carted to the Common and stacked.

"I worked until six o'clock Sunday morning, and was so tired then I had to go home and go to bed."

TWO WOMEN SEEK CITY COUNCIL SEATS

Two women seek seats in the Boston City Council. They are Miss Annie E. Molloy, president of the Telephone Operators' Union and Miss Florence M. Brennan of No. 183 Blue Hill avenue. Fifteen candidates have already taken out papers for the three vacancies in the council. The election will be on December 13.



Annie E. Molloy

MAGLIO FAMILY ROW CASE IS PUT OVER

Ralph Maglio and his wife, Catherine of No. 8 Quincy street, were in Roxbury Court charged with assault on Mrs. Mary Maglio, mother of Ralph and David, a brother. For many long weeks this family has kept the clerk of court busy, in addition to the police. The mother is in City Hospital recovering from injuries alleged to have been administered by the son and daughter-in-law. Both defendants pleaded not guilty and the case was put over for a week.

JILTS GIRL TO MARRY HEIRESS

Boston Real Estate Man's Son, Parted From Bride, Faces Serious Charge

Ernest Gustaf Isenbeck, Jr., son of a well-to-do Boston and Peabody real estate broker, jilted his fiancee in Beverly before he started the whirlwind courtship in New York that involved him in a sudden marriage and equally sudden annulment proceedings.

When Isenbeck went from Massachusetts to New York, he was engaged to marry Miss Nellie May Leck of Beverly. The first Miss Leck knew of any change in his plans was when she read in the newspapers of his sudden marriage to Miss Josephine A. Astel of Cleveland, daughter of a very wealthy coal dealer.

Both the parents of Isenbeck and of Miss Astel are now trying to have the marriage annulled.

ASKED PRESENTS BACK.

About a month ago, it is said, Isenbeck went to the home of Miss Leck and begged her to marry him at once. She had previously told him they must wait until he was in a position to support a home. He then asked her to change her position and marry him without further delay.

When she still insisted on a wait, he showed her another girl's picture, with the announcement that if Miss Leck refused to marry him he might marry the other girl.

"She's stuck on me and her father's a millionaire," he said.

Miss Leck remained firm and he went away. She later received a letter from his attorney, asking her to return presents he had given her.

Isenbeck did not remain with his new bride very long after the ceremony. Both his parents and those of Miss Astel took immediate steps to separate them, and his father declares the marriage was one in name only. It is expected that the ceremony will be annulled shortly

TAKE TROY TRIP TO HELP BOOM BOSTON PORT

Nearly a score of Boston shipping, railroad and business men left for Troy, N. Y., today to interest the business interests in that city in a traffic scheme which promises to solve some of New England's transportation problems. The plan proposed by the Boston interests is an expansion of the Troy terminal of the Erie Canal, through which export freight might pour into Boston via the Fitchburg division of the Boston & Maine and Boston & Albany railroads.

The plan is a result of the study of Boston port conditions by Frank S. Davis, manager of the Maritime Association of the Boston Chamber of Commerce. Manager Davis was formerly located at Troy.

Among those who accompanied Mr. Davis today were Vice President Charles E. Spencer of the First National Bank, Chairman Edward F. Hodgett of the Maritime Association Chairman Warren G. Torrey of the Boston Grain Board and Vice President B. R. Pollock of the Boston & Maine.

At Troy they will be entertained by the local Chamber of Commerce and will meet leading officials of the New York Public Works Department.

ARREST IN COURT FOR AUTO THEFT

Walter Barrett of Intervale street, Roxbury, was arrested in Roxbury courtroom today, on a bench warrant issued by Judge Hayden. Barrett is charged with the larceny of an auto owned by Harry Miller of Intervale street, Roxbury, which was stolen on October 27 and later found abandoned in Dorchester. At the time the machine was taken nine hats were in it. Dorothy Reynolds and May Sullivan were charged with stealing the hats and they were before Judge Hayden today. The girls' cases were put over until next Tuesday.

BOUCHIE NAMES THREE MEN IN DIVORCE

William F. Bouchie, former cashire for the Old Colony Foreign Exchange Company, has started divorce proceedings against his wife, Mary A. Bouchie of East Boston charging her with infidelity. Bouchie asks for the custody of the three Bouchie children.

The divorce action is the culmination of a long series of marital difficulties that have beset the path of the Bouchies. Last June Mrs. Bouchie brought a complaint against her husband and Miss Katherine Loughlin of Hull, charging them with a statutory offence. When they appeared in the Roxbury court they were released because Mrs. Bouchie failed to put in her appearance.

"I have kept quiet while my wife has been saying all kinds of things about me," said Mr. Bouchie today "Now I will have my day. When this case comes to court there will be a regular series of sensations.

"I am going to name three men in this case. I will not give out their names now. One is a policeman, another a real estate man and the third is a big Boston business man. Aside from that I will say nothing now.

"I have tried to be good to my wife and she would not let me. I have done everything in my power to be a good husband. Now I am through. I want my three children because of the seriousness of the charges I will make and because I feel that they will be better off with their father."

Mrs. Bouchie is living at No. 1144 Bennington street, East Boston. She has the three children with her there.

PARENTS MISSING AMONG GUESTS

Douglas Admits Folks Called Him "Fool" for Loaning Rings to Beauty

Burlington, Vt., Nov. 9. — Mrs. Mary Kennedy Woodhouse, mother-in-law of Dorrit Van Deusen Stevens Woodhouse, who is seeking $1,000,000 damages in an alienation of affections suit against her husband's parents, was on the stand today.

She arrived in an imported Italian car, in striking contrast to the machine in which Lorenzo, her husband, journeys to and from the courthouse, in an antiquated horse-drawn buggy

Before Mrs. Woodhouse took the stand reading of the deposition of her son, taken at Reno, Nev., where he is seeking a divorce, was completed. In it Douglas said:

"I always have had affection for my wife," and declared that "never in the world did he intend to marry Mrs. Lillian Hendrick McClellan, the Washington divorcee, who has been prominent in the case.

NEVER KNEW STEVENS.

Douglas added that on many occasions he parents called him "a damn fool" because he had lent two expensive diamond rings to Mrs McClellan. He said that he abandoned his attempts to induce his parents to recognise his wife in the Summer of 1919 while he was at East Hampton, L. I.

Mrs. Woodhouse, Sr., was stunningly dressed in a black jacquetted brocaded velour gown, with a black French tricorne hat, ornamented by a diamond arrow. About her neck was a rich sable scarf and a string of pearls. She also wore a diamond-studded lorgnette.

Her manner while on the stand was calm. She answered questions forty minutes without an interruption, before a brief recess was allowed her. She then resumed the stand.

HEARD OF BETROTHAL.

The witness showed a startling lack of knowledge in regard to her Burlington neighbors, although she lived here for thirty-seven years.

She even said that she did not know of the existence of the Stevens family, whose home on Spruce street is within sight of the Woodhouse mansion

Even after she had heard that her son, Douglas, was paying court to Dorrit Stevens, she said, she never knew where the Stevens home was located. She added that she never knew Douglas frequently climbed his backyard fence to pay visits to Dorrit

Asked if she was a resident of Burlington, she replied:

"I was twenty years ago." Q.—Then your statement that your residence now is in Burlington is fiction? A.—My husband is a resident of Burlington. I presume I am included in that.

Q.—Would you know the members of the Stevens family if you met them on the street?

A.—I should not.

Q.—Didn't you discover that just around the corner was the girl your son was greatly interested in?

A.—No

Q.—Were you satisfied with her as a daughter-in-law?

A.—Perfectly.

The witness said she would have liked to attend her son's wedding, but had received no invitation.

SUES FOR BUILDING PERMIT IN MILTON

Samuel Spector of Boston has sued G. Edward Burt, building commissioner of Milton, and Jacob A. Turner, Maurice A. Duffy and James F. BREAKS WILL DECIDE THE HARVARD-PRINCETON CLASSIC

LUCK WILL PLAY AN IMPORTANT PART

By CHARLES E. PARKER.

Even before our once long and luxuriant curls became the proud boast of fond parents, 1597, to be exact, George Chapman pulled a line that still is doing a rushing business in the "That's-dern-true League."

Said George!

"Fortune, the great commandress of the world,
"Hath divers ways to advance her followers;
"To some she gives honour without deserving,
"To other some, deserving without honour."

Were George up on modern lingo and desirous of applying that thought to the Harvard-Princeton grid game at the Stadium, he might have remarked:

"Take it from one who knows—I says that get the breaks will be the canary's cuff links when John and Tige do their stuff this week."

In so saying George would take the very time from our typewriter, for be it known it is our firm conviction that Pierre Fortune's boney elbow will nudge a nasty nudge on Saturday afternoon.

The Game Is in the Lap of Lady Luck

Yes, sir, that there game is in the lap of Lady Luck, just as are 99 games in every 100 where gridiron opponents are of about equal strength, and no one knows at this writing which of the contestants will be fondled by that fickle frail or which will be elbowed from his soft seat.

The rival coaches recognize this fact, for as waiting, break-watching game is the order at both camps and from the outset until it becomes too late, you can count on both Harvard and Princeton courting the favor of that hesitating Hester who says, "Sieves that punt," "fumble that pass," "miss that tackle," "flub that play."

One of the most remarkable games of that sort was the Yale-Harvard contest of 1914. At the end of that game the score stood 36 to 0 in Harvard's favor, yet, for the life of you, you could not say which was the better team.

Harvard Cashed and Yale Lost on Everything

The breaks started coming early in the first few minutes of play a Yale back fumbled the ball just as he was about to step over the Harvard goal line for a touchdown, and before the referee's whistle had sounded, a Harvard end had snapped up the pigskin and run 88 yards to a Harvard score. And that's the way things went, with Harvard cashing on everything and Yale losing out in the same proportion.

On Saturday the very tossing of the coin, which enables the winning captain to chose the goal or the kick-off, may fore-ordain the victory, for, in playing a waiting, break-watching game, the team that receives the kick-off unless it has the support of a strong favorable wind, is placed at an immediate disadvantage, and, if an early break occurs, it transpires in that team's territory.

Teams Are at Stand-off in Material Is Agreed

That the teams are at a stand-off in material is generally agreed. Each comes to Saturday's game with a clean slate, having engaged about the same number of worth while foes, and having escaped defeat aided considerably by the very fortune they count this week.

Whatever favorable edge does exist, however, would seem to rest with the Tigers.

They have been through fire this season, an experience that has been withheld from Harvard by fortune and officiating. The Tigers know what it feels like to find themselves trailing a capable team, and they know the joy that comes in battling to victory after having been caught in such circumstances.

Harvard might have known such thrills had Larry Leavitt's touchdown been allowed in the Dartmouth game, as we believe it should have been. But because it was not so ruled Harvard has found itself leading the score in every game thus far and never really sorely pressed.

Tiger Regulars Got Their Test in Chicago Game

The Tiger regulars got their test in the Chicago game. With Chicago leading 13 to 7, they refused to drag their tails and ultimately won the game 21 to 13. Even the Tiger subs had an experience of that nature, for last week Swarthmore, against whom they played, negotiated an early touchdown, but found the subs coming back to a 22 to 13 triumph.

A year ago Harvard was put to such tests in the Centre and Princeton games, and while it can't not be said Harvard lacked comeback spirit, it is noteworthy that in neither instance did Harvard cash that spirit into winning scores—the Crimson just missing out in each instance.

The attack of neither team has been impressive, and while anovations they will introduce Saturday may gain ground for a time, they are not apt to do so throughout the contest.

On that issue also Princeton is in somewhat the better position, for Princeton has not expected much from its attack. It has been an opportunist team and still remains one. But Harvard always has felt pretty sure of its ground-gaining defense, and when Dartmouth held the Crimson attack for a grand total of but four first downs, and then on three occasion took the ball on downs when Harvard thought a score would materialize, Harvard lost much of its cock sureness. Harvard now is a bit fearful over the Crimson, especially so when Princeton is to oppose it for Harvard has not defeated Princeton in three years.

Another slight edge in Princeton's favor comes in the kicking department. The Tigers boast three or four punters just as able as Erwin Gehske of the Crimson, and have ends who can cover their kicks much better than Harvard ends have covered Gehske's boots. And Princeton has backs who enjoy running back enemy kicks much better than Charley Buell, the Harvard leader enjoys the task.

That Edge for the Tigers May Mean Much

If, as is expected, a kicking, break waiting game is employed by both elevens the last Tiger edge may mean much, for gaining on the kicks themselves, and gaining on the running back of such kicks, Princeton may be able to force the issue from the very outset and force Harvard to spend itself in a rushing attack.

Offsetting more or less these several slight Princeton advantages is the generalship of the Harvard coaching staff as drilled into Charley Buell. Officials who have worked in Harvard games this season inform us Buell is the knowingest gridiron leader in the game today.

That his chatter greatly impresses such officials was evidenced in the Harvard-Dartmouth contest when he persuaded them to inflict interference penalties on fair catch signals made in one instance when he tripped over a Harvard man, and, in another, when he was not in a position to make the catch.

Cagey Enough to Take Advantage of Everything

We do not know whether the Crimson leader will be so successful on Saturday, but we do know he is cagey enough to take full advantage of everything that does transpire in the game, and we are pretty sure he will make no mistake in handling his team.

If he proves to have weapons capable of downing the Tiger, Buell is very likely to succeed. But, with material only on a par with the Tigers and weapons no more effective than they proved to be against Dartmouth, he, too, will be forced to depend on the luck of the game and no one knows how or where that luck will be found.

Winsacie, Princeton's second string field general, is a quarterback of the Buell type, a team director rather than an individual all-around star, but he has not enjoyed Buell's foot ball upbringing. Gorman, the Tiger first string quarter, is a brilliant individual player whose generalship may be questioned, although to date it has got real results.

In the Chicago game, Gorman got away with a 40-yard forward pass again from behind his own goal line which illustrates just what you may expect from him if the Tigers become sorely pressed on Saturday. The little fellow was injured a bit in the Chicago clash, but is expected to start the Harvard game.

But on Saturday, watch for the breaks. They will tell the story.

Doyle and Herman in Bout at Lynn Club Tonight

Paul Doyle, New York welterweight, accompanied by Manager Tony Palazolo, arrived in Boston today from New York. Doyle is billed to meet Johnny Herman of Allentown, Pa., at the Casino A. C. of Lynn tonight.

Doyle has always been a big card in Lynn. The fact that Paul has been knocking out dangerous opponents in New York and Pennsylvania rings mean: a capacity crowd will attend tonight's quarrel. Many Boston fans will take in this show.

Herman has engaged in some good bouts at Lynn, and is sure to make things interesting for Doyle.

Buddy Clark of Salem and Happy Sullivan of New Bedford will collide in the semi-final.

Y TO HOLD A 1,000 POINT COMPETITION

A new feature of the Huntington avenue branch of the Y. M. C. A. this season will be a 1000 point athletic championship which will run through November, December, January and February.

It will be open to any member of the "Y" and does not mean that the man must excel in the events to secure a 1000 point emblem.

One event will be held each week and points will be received according to the time or distance in which the contestant does each event.

The aim is to get every man into the events.

The events to be staged November 14 are 20 yard dash or four potato roll.

At the close of the two State Athletic competition there will be a special meet of the 1000 point winners.

TIGERS HAVE HARDEST WORK OF SEASON

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 9—The Princeton football squad was given its last hard workout before the Tigers departed to meet the sons of John Harvard in Cambridge Saturday. Every member of the squad was thrown into the practice, at the conclusion of which it was announced that the Tigers are ready to meet the Crimson.

The followers of Old Nassau look forward to this game with much interest, and although the odds reposed of Centre and Dartmouth, while the Orange and Black took Colgate and Chicago into camp.

Workout Included Every Play in Repertoire

The workout was the hardest of the season, and in addition to scrimmage it included every play in the Roper repertoire, and all forms of kicking, charging and defensive tactics.

The coaches started the men off easily. The backs kicked and got down under the kicks, Baker and Smith tried for drop kicks, the ends caught forward passes and took out interference.

The scrubs have become proficient in the Harvard plays and used them to advantage against the varsity. Once they crossed the varsity goal line for a touchdown.

Frank Murray, quarterback in 1920, who assisted the coaches, played with the Omelettes and on the try for point, sent the ball neatly between the goal posts.

Training for Defence Is What They Need

The varsity was on the defensive most of the time, for training in this department is what they needed most, as evidenced by the gains of those Thomas boys in the Chicago game.

The varsity scored once despite their defensive playing, when a scrub punt was blocked, rolled behind the line and was recovered by one of the regulars. Baker's try for goal was blocked, but Coach Roper had the play repeated. Smith tried, and the Tiger kicking ace sent the pigskin over for the additional point.

It seems evident that the latter will be relied upon for most of the drop-kicking Saturday, as it was his educated toe which piled up the three points which meant victory over Chicago.

It now seems likely that Willie Wingate will start the game at quarter Saturday, as he has been showing excellent form all week, and made deep inroads into the berth which seemed assured by Gorman, while Gorman was recovering from the severe jolting in the Windy City. Gorman, however, is in condition to play, and the momentous quarterback problem has not yet been decided.

How the Varsity and Second Elevens Played

The varsity lined up as follows:

Stout and Gray, ends; Baker and Treat, tackles; Snively and Dickenson, guards; Alford, centre; Wingate, quarter; Caldwell and Crum, half backs, and Cleaves, fullback. Gordon and Dinsmore were substituted for Wingate and Howard for Snively.

The next varsity played as follows: Tillson and Drews, ends; Hills and Schenk, tackles; Buckner and Thomson, guards; Griffin, centre; Bergen, Newby, Beattie and Dinsmore, backs.

Practice this afternoon will be light and the evacuation of Tigertown will take place at 9 o'clock tonight, when the squad of thirty-four men leaves for Boston. Final practice will be held in the Harvard Stadium Friday morning. Practically the entire undergraduate body will be in Boston for the game.

Coast Teams Battle for Championship on Saturday

The Washington and California game at Seattle will be the big dish for the far coast gridiron enthusiasts this Saturday. With their hardest games over except this game, the winner will be hailed, undoubtedly, as champion out there.

GIRL'S FIELD HOCKEY GAME IS POSTPONED

The delayed Greater Boston Interscholastic Girls' Field Hockey League game between Arlington and Dedham, put over until yesterday afternoon, was postponed because of the unfavorable conditions.

The game between Watertown and Winchester will be played this afternoon at Winchester.

GROTON WINS ANNUAL ST. MARK'S GAME

Groton, Nov. 9.—Groton Academy defeated St. Marks, 6 to 0 in the annual game. The home team made a touchdown. It was the thirty-fourth annual contest between the two rival prep school academies. As usual, the home team won.

It was a clean, hard-fought struggle, the team generals, Williams and Chauncey of Groton and Hoyt of St. Mark's, drawing up their attack for the breaks.

The Groton quarterback had a slight advantage, excelling in team work and made the power count in the pinches. The punting favored Groton to a slight extent, and by choosing to punt at the most opportune times Groton finally came into possession of the ball on the St. Mark's 25 yard line in the second period.

It was the first big chance in the game and the Groton stands roared its encouragement for the team to make good. St. Mark's rooters cheered wildly for the team to hold. On second, third and fourth downs the visiting forward line hardly budged, and it seemed as though the opportunity was to be lost for a Groton score.

The ball was passed back. The St. Mark secondary defence rushed forward to help block the kick. But the kick never came, for instead, Chauncey straightened up and as quick as a flash, shot a flat pass to his left into the waiting arms of Barney, his left end, who ran to the 12 yard line and squirmed through St. Mark's arms to the fouryard line before he was downed.

A line play was worth a yard and then on a delayed pass Morse was given the assignment to carry through left guard. He plunged ahead for the needed distance for six points. The attempted drop on the try point was missed.

The lineup and summary:

ST. MARKS		GROTON
Barney, Satterlee	L.e.	Morse, Dewson

LOCK OUT FOR YALE, BRICKLEY'S WARNING TO HARVARD

TAD JONES HAS GREAT ARRAY OF TALENT

By CHARLES L. BRICKLEY,
Former Star at Harvard and One of the Greatest Football Stars of the Age.

Charley Brickley

If I had the time I would haunt the Harvard Stadium for the next three weeks and to every Harvard man I met I would give this message:

"Look out for Yale!"

I say this now while there is still time. It might be too late after the game is on. The Yale eleven is on the verge of big things. I feel that in my bones. Whether it realizes on this promise is up to Harvard, and Princeton also, as much as it is to Yale itself. If they go against the bulldog with the idea that Tad Jones has nothing beyond the same old offensive stuff of the last few years, it is likely to be an unpleasant afternoon with unpleasant results for both of them.

Everybody is willing to concede that Yale has wonderful material.

I would add to this my belief that Tad Jones is a good, practical football man and I think he will prove it in the style of game Yale employs in these big games this year, whether it wins them or not.

Until recent weeks all Yale needed was an open game and it is significant that this was used to such good effect against Brown last Saturday as the bulldogs won by twenty points and in spite of the fact that they were outrushed from scrimmage.

In that game Yale made use of the Neidlinger pass threat on nearly every play just as well as did Notre Dame, Ohio State, California, Harvard and other great exponents of the overhead game during recent years. As a matter of fact, Jones has borrowed the Harvard pass from running formation and no longer makes use of the stationary passer, a type of game that should not fool school boys.

Jones Failed to Show All of His Plays

That much he showed the Harvard scouts at the Brown game. But no one believes that he showed his entire hand. He probably has variations of the play up his sleeve and will not use them until the big games.

Jones has a remarkable squad of backs around which to build such an offence. In the Brown game, Wight, a triple threat man, was used as the passer and Neidlinger as the receiver. It is possible that Wight, who is a very good man, may be replaced in the big games for the reason that Jones has more good backs than two college teams might boast. If Wight doesn't start, he will have two other triple threats in Neale and O'Hearn.

In connection with the latter, I would like to point out the difference in the way things are figured at Harvard and at Yale. If O'Hearn went to Harvard he would never be allowed to play quarterback. Neither would Neidlinger.

Such men are placed in other backfield positions where they can run the ball and pass without having the worries of a field general. In addition Harvard figures that in keeping its quarterback out of running plays, it is giving him time to think and at the same time, saving him from possible injury.

Harvard Aware of the Situation

However, Yale is a sleeping dog just now. It is not showing all it knows and from what I have seen at Cambridge, I think Harvard is aware of the situation. It is known that Yale likes to have the other fellow regard it as the under dog, for psychology plays a big part in football, just as it does in any sport. Still, I would feel better about it if every Harvard man went around telling one another the thing I said first and say now:

"Look out for Yale."

McAllister Closes Season

McAllister School will wind up its season on this afternoon, with Allentary School juniors, in Concord.

GREEN VARSITY TEAM FIGHTS ITHACANS

Hanover, N. H., Nov. 9.—Dartmouth is ready for Cornell, the objective of the "Big Green" season. A long scrimmage, in which every player with a possibility of getting into the Cornell battle was used, wound up the hardest week of gridiron practice that the Dartmouth squad has had all year.

For the first time this season every member of the varsity will be in the lineup when Dartmouth takes the field in the Polo Grounds Saturday. Injury in the scrimmage today was the last obstacle to be cleared and the coaches now rest easy.

Regular Backfield Players Are Primed.

The regular backfield, Halsey Mills, quarter; Chick Burke and Roger Harris, halfbacks, and Larry Leavitt, full, are all primed. Eddie Lynch and Hank Bjorkman will play the ends, Fudge Neidlinger and Bill Hatch, tackles; Aschenbacker and Taylor, guards, and Moore, center.

Practice was secret. There will be a light signal drill today before the squad entrains. Friday the team will workout in the Polo Grounds to get used to the air currents and turf.

Coach Cannell was again rather reticent about the workout, but said that Chick Burke was very powerful on the offensive and had lost none of his effectiveness in the three week lay-off he received on account of injuries.

Frankie Smith May Be Seen in Action.

Cannell also intimated that Frankie Smith would be seen once again in action. Smith has not played since the brilliant debut of Halsey Mills a month ago.

Ozzy Siegfried is counted on to bear a heavy part of the Green attack, and will be used in Burke's position.

The Green is expected to reveal its real offense against Cornell.

It is no secret that Dartmouth has stuff which it hasn't been using and the whole undergraduate body is relying on this to turn back the Ithacans.

Enthusiasm ran at a fever pitch at a monster mass meeting in a final drive for support for the team in New York. The meeting was held in Webster Hall following a long parade in the rain. Jack Cannell, Jim Robertson, line coach and captain of the 1920 and 1921 teams, and Professor Harry Wellman were the speakers.

Polk will be remembered here for his great battle against Jim Londos, and his remarkable all-round wrestling ability and strength. This rounds out what looks like one of the finest wrestling bills arranged in a long time.

Lexington will play against Winchester on November 18.

The Lexington eleven has no scheduled encounter for Thanksgiving [illegible] to book a game for "Turkey Day."

VILLA AND MONTREAL TO BATTLE NOV. 27

New York, Nov. 9.—Pancho Villa is so confident that he will beat Abe Goldstein at Madison Square Garden that he has signed up to fight Young Montreal at Boston on November 27.

The little Filipino is in hard training for the finishing bout, because some time ago in Jersey City, Goldstein handed Pancho a decisive beating.

FITTS AND COBURN ON HARVARD'S TEAM B

Roscoe Fitts and Phil Coburn have been promoted to the backfield on Team B at Harvard.

Fitts was demoted two weeks ago to the third eleven for insubordination. In the Florida contest he was sent in as an end on the third eleven. After that he was promoted to end on the second best team, and then he was shifted to the backfield, which was his original position. He has not yet got into the first string backfield with Owen.

Harvard will use him in the Princeton game if it is found necessary, but Coach Bob Fisher is looking ahead two weeks when he will take his squad to the Blue Bowl. It is thought that Harvard will be able to hand the Orange and Black all they want. Chapin, Gehrke and Owen will carry the ball.

Coburn has recovered from his injury received three weeks ago in record time. It was thought when he fell before the onslaught of the Centre Colonels that he would not be available until the Yale encounter. However unless Princeton threatens Harvard's last white line Coburn will be saved for the last and great test of the season's hours. He is the best defensive back that they have at the university across the Charles.

Chapin will go all the way to Coburn at a defensive game. He is in order and Gehrke will bow to the open field running ability and punting prowess of Fitts if an offensive drive is on the books.

Holder and Jenkins will play the wings, Eastman and Dunker, tackles; Hubbard and Grew, guards; Clark, center; Buell, quarterback; Owen, Gehrke and Chapin, backs. That will be the line up on Saturday at the opening kick-off.

Harvard puts its faith in the Owen-Buell combination that has worked so well for the past two years and most of this Buell is rated far above Gorman as a strategist.

A Princeton player admits that it has been drilled into their minds that Harvard is the sole objection and that Yale has not been given a thought.

One can see that a state of war has been declared until after the game. One can also perhaps understand that Harvard is just as eager to beat Princeton as it is to stifle the bulldog's yelp.

Harvard men are willing to give 10 to 8 odds on the game on the result, but there are those, especially those who saw the Princeton-Chicago affair, who think the Crimson better are foolish to do so.

McGRATH WILL TRY TO PIN CALZA TO MAT

HEAVYWEIGHTS CLASH AT GRAND TONIGHT

By JACK CONWAY.

Jack McGrath, heavyweight wrestling champion of New England, will see to it tonight that the Boston wrestling fans get a chance to see a real champion in action when he tackles George Calza in the main bout on the mat card to be staged in the Boston Arena. McGrath has been trying for the past few months to get a match with the Italian grappler, but has had difficulty in doing so. Calza has been the most popular wrestler to appear in Boston in years, and the fact that he has been willing to meet all comers at the Arena has made him a favorite with the fans.

Calza, of course, has been beaten. He is the first to admit it. He is the best wrestler to invade Boston in years. The Italian's record is one of the most remarkable in the history of the game.

Calza wants to wrestle anyone he likes to oppose him, and Lewis, the big show with the old Howard management is going to stage at the Boston Arena on November 22. Lewis has already signed for the show, while three other matches are also appearing on the card.

Calza is out now to win the championship of New England, and Young Marin, who came to this country with Calza and who taught the Italian champion the fine points of the game, will also appear on tonight's card. He will oppose Mike Thomas, Greek lightheavyweight.

Willie Cradwell Anxious to Get Go With Parker

Willie Gradwell who handed Pickles Martin a pasting at the Arena the other night, is anxious to get a go with Charley Parker of the South End. Parker scored a popular decision over Gradwell in a recent bout, and Willie is anxious to get a chance to even matters up.

Tommy Leahy Entitled to Bout With Byron

Tommy Leahy, Worcester County lightweight champion is entitled to a bout with Sailor Byron when he comes to work the New England A. A. A. U. games next June. Leahy defeated Byron in a recent bout in Worcester, and Byron, who is considered very crafty as a title holder until he has beaten Leahy. Those men have already met four times and Leahy won each start. That would seem to [illegible] Byron to give Leahy a chance to get back the championship.

[illegible] Byron has been trying for a return bout with Leahy for some time, but Tommy has been willing to meet Byron only in a match for the championship.

Travers Does Not Claim N. E. Featherweight Title

Mickey Travers does not claim the New England featherweight title, although he has defeated Jack Richardson and Tony Manfredo, managers, have issued the following statement:

We do not claim the New England featherweight title for Mickey Travers. The latter agreed to take 10 pounds from Richardson because of a bout for the New England championship. Travers was 12 pounds at ringside and as a result the match was not for the championship.

Siki in Bad, May Lose Ring Honors Won From Georges

Paris, Nov. 9.—The "rough neck" tactics of Battling Siki, Senegalese negro, who won the light heavyweight championship of Europe by knocking out Georges Carpentier, may lose him prize-ring honors, it was generally believed in sporting circles today.

Bets of 2 to 1 were made that the French Boxing Federation will disqualify Siki permanently from the French prize-ring and declare his title forfeited.

LATIN DEFEATS DORCHESTER, 7 TO 0

A blocked punt followed by a recovery by Texis left end of Latin a safety, gave Coach Fitzgerald a team victory over that of Dorchester High at Braves Field Dorchester. Latin kicked on the 1 yard line for downs and McDonald attempted a kick from behind his own goal line.

[illegible] broke in sharply, blocked the kick and fell on the ball for a safety. Elton scored the seventh point with a placement kick.

It was a break for the Latin team after they had been outplayed in the three preceding periods. Dorchester made three attempts to score as the game drew to a close. Twice they were held on the Latin 1 yard line. Once they lost the ball on downs on an attempt for goal from field.

Dorchester's best opportunity to score came in the second period. Latin's line gave way and allowed the ball from scrimmage to be carried to the 1 yard line. Dorchester was unable to push the leather across.

Latin school rallied late in the fourth quarter after a bad punt by the goal line on three downs and allowed the ball from scrimmage to be carried to Dorchester's 1 yard line. Crosby made atonement for his bad fumbles early in the game with fine plunges off the tackles for big gains.

HUB WINS IN THREE INTER-CITY BOUTS

The annual inter-city amateur boxing tournament brought out 3,500 fans, who sheltered themselves from the rain drops under the roof of the Boston Arena. The show proved to be one of the most attractive of its kind in many a moon.

Throughout the evening the large gathering of fans from time to time leaped to their feet and cheered on the youthful gladiators who toiled inside the squared circle for honors in [illegible] classes. Open amateur bouts were held in conjunction with the main show.

The biggest hits were the final and semi-final bouts of all classes.

Florida Sailor Wins in 147-Pound Class

H. J. O'Grady, who made shore off the U. S. S. Florida, which is tied up at the Charleston Navy Yard, battled his way to victory over Martin Corbett of Lynn in the 147 pound class. His wonderful exhibition of both boxing and fighting made some two hundred or more of his shipmates who had drawn anchor and shoved off for the Arena go wild with joy. He gave them and the large gathering of fans plenty of action to talk about for some time.

O'Grady, a bright red-headed youth, in his first bout drove a flock of starboard and portside slams into the body and face of "Dot" Town send of New York, who three times crumpled to the floor of the ring. On the third time knock-down, Referee Jerry Moore waved the sailor boy to his corner and the lines in the circle broke loose with rounds of applause.

Tommy Kirby Wins From Andrew Zamba

The last bout in the inter-city, found Tommy Kirby of Roxbury opposed to Andrew Zamba of New York, for the title in the 160 pound class. His was a humdinger of a [illegible] However after the smoke had cleared after the three rounds, the bout was awarded to the Roxbury boy, although Zamba once dropped to the canvas came back with enough stuff to gather the award.

Although the New York officials hoped to gather the lion's share of honors in the Inter-City matches they were disappointed. Out of four final bouts local boys took the awards in three. The only New Yorker who won was Phil Bricks, in the 126 pound class, who was given the award of both the judges and referee, over Louis Ziggaro of Roxbury.

The summary of finals follows.

BOSTON COLLEGE SQUAD RIGHT ON EDGE FOR BAYLOR

CAPT. KELLEHER ONLY REGULAR OUT OF GAME

The Baylor Bears are speeding across the country on their journey Northwards and will arrive in Boston, according to the present schedule sometime tomorrow morning. The entire squad of twenty-three men are reported in excellent condition, and will have plenty of time to rid themselves of their "training" cramps before they romp out onto Braves Field Saturday afternoon.

As the battle nears, the Boston College warriors are getting a little bit restless and are eager for the start of the big game. The entire Eagle regular team, with the exception of Captain Kelleher, is in fine shape for the contest.

The only gloom in the B. C. camp is caused by the weather. In the last two days darkness has gathered early over Alumni Field and forced the Eagle players to rely almost on instinct in running through some dummy scrimmage sessions.

Long after the arc lights begin to gleam along Beacon street, Darling and Devlin can be heard barking out signals to the invisible elevens.

Every man on the Maroon and Gold squad is training hard to be ready for the Texas invaders Saturday will find the Eagle in its best fighting form, every player determined to turn back the Texans.

Some Texans Though Billy Doyle Was Heaphy.

Some of the Texans reported that Billy Doyle, who played centre for B. C against Baylor last Fall, was Jack Heaphy, undersized star of the game, decamed that luck, the Baylor centre, outplayed the Eagle west man. On Saturday, the bears will meet Heaphy in rather an informal manner and Jack is anxious to show the visitors that he is the real and original Heaphy.

The Bears have met Comerford, the Eagle left wing, and they have a high regard for the fleet footed, hard tackling number 9. This lad will have a hard time running back punts by Tony Wise is found unduly politely waiting for the opposing back to grab the ball before he downs him.

O'Connell, Fast Man, Getting Down Under Punts.

O'Connell also is a fast man getting down under punts. And if the two wingmen fail to arrive with the ball, Heaphy usually manages to be out in front. Baylor has had great success in running back punts and it will be necessary for the B. C wingmen to be on their toes whenever Darling sends one of his long boots down the field.

Many of the Baylor plays, like Lafayette's, depend on the ability of the line to hold while the preliminary jiggling of the ball is going on in the backfield. Paton and Koslowski will be assigned to the task of breaking through the Baylor defence fast enough to prevent the plays getting under way.

Should Do Good Work Against the Bears.

After the way Ward and Cronin smashed through the Villanova line, it is expected that they will be able to do good work against the Bear defence. Ward has a habit of gaining ground against the strongest lines, even if he has to carry along two or three of the opposing line to gather with the ball.

Cavanaugh's plans for Saturday are kept hidden, but there is no doubt but he will have a few surprises to hand Baylor. Bayor are reported to have increased its defensive strength considerably since the B. C backs ripped the line to pieces last Fall and the Eagle back field quartet may find it a harder task to break through this year.

Darling Will Kee, Them Away With His Punts.

In case the Bear line holds too firmly against the assaults of the Eagle backs, Darling will be ready to keep the Bears away from the B. C. goal with his 40 yard punts.

In punting, B. C. is likely to have the advantage. Detroit and Lafayette players thought twice before attempting to gain ground on Darling's kicks, and usually decided that it was wiser to let the ball roll behind the goal lines and be sure of at least getting the ball as far out as the 20 yard line.

Boston College to Have Fall Track Meets

The Fall track season at Boston College will open formally next Monday with the Freshman meet.

The annual interclass meet will begin on November 28, when the field events will be held. On November 24 the track events will be held, and the meet will close on November 27 with the relay races.

Coach Ryder has an exceptionally large number of candidates, and looks forward to one of the most successful track seasons in recent years.

SUMMERFIELD CHAMPIONS HONORED

Summerfield Furniture Company's baseball team, champions of the city stores for the past season, held their first annual dance and reception at the Chateau Dansant on Huntington avenue. This was also a reception to Presidin and Mrs. Benjamin Stearn and their daughter, Lora Stearn, who arrived from abroad only recently.

A entertainment galore was furnished the large gathering. The party was a huge success in every way. James W. Lanigan, manager of the baseball team was in charge, and his credit about 3 hours him for the evening balanced program of entertainers who made merry.

Among the invited guests were Mr and Mrs J. H. Stearn Mr and Mrs. Julius Stearn, Mr. and Mrs. George F. Pedrick, Oscar Reamer and E. J. Pierce.

George Roberts, leading hitter on the Summerfield baseball nine, was awarded a handsome trophy, which was donated and presented by George Pedrick general manager of the establishment.

Among the entertainers who took part in the interesting program were Fred Mafera, Harold Ryan, Oscar Reamer in impersonations of "Harry Lauder," with Eddie Murphy at the piano.

All are connected with the Summerfield store. Another fast number was that of the Duval sisters Blanche and Babe, who gave some modern dances.

ST. MARY JUNIORS OPPOSE CHELSEA A. A.

The St. Mary Juniors of East Boston have secured the Chelsea A. A. for opponents on Sunday. The St. Marys have a clean record for the last two years. This will be an interesting game, as Odell, the star of the St. Mary's eleven, will oppose Donovan of Chelsea. The game will take place at War Memorial Park, East Boston, at 2:30 p. m.

FOOTBALL PREDICTIONS

HARVARD and Princeton, using the collateral pass, will play the usual tie game, $75,000 to $75,000, that being the fifty-fifty split of some $0,000 tickets at three iron men per. A great game.

All the trials told by the boy friends that business keeps them from the game, will know that tickets were scarce.

Special flank drill will feature the intermission between halves. This shows the real old football spirit.

Then the boys will read the Sunday papers to find out who won the game.

Joseph, one of the greatest of sharp shooters, packed brains along with great natural ability. He is an ideal type for a college coaching berth which seems to be the proper stepping stone toward a big league manager's job.

If Joe can put his brand of courage into them Eli youths New Haven will get back some of its old athletic glory. Joe had the courage of a lion in the box and refused to be kayoed when his arm went sour. He converted himself into a very fine outfielder by sticking to the job. He had the proper prescription for success—the desire and determination to keep going ahead, regardless honorable gentlemen who deserve of the obstacles that block the trail.

THE baseball pickers are now trying to attach somebody to the job of managing the Phillies next year. Perfectly upright and such a fate not at all, are being dished into the trouble. Which gives them the bother of denying it.

Directing that outfit is about as lovely as the ride in a funeral procession. Jesse Williams kept the team out of the cellar for the first time in two years and is rewarded for a touchdown, when it failed to clear the crossbar.

All the Suburban League faculty football managers were present and the protest was beaten 7 to 1. Manager Nash voted for it. Everett Hitt will be replaced with a 13 to 12 victory over Malden and there a no change in the league standing.

MICKEY WALKER HERE MONDAY

Mickey Walker, world' welterweight champion as a result of his sensational victory over Jack Britton, has been signed for a week's engagement at the Old Howard beginning next Monday.

Mickey Walker.

Walker is now showing before the footlights at Shubert's. There are Newark, N. J. He will box three rounds at each exhibition while in Boston. He will give the fans a demonstration of the terrific punching power that enabled him to win over Britton.

Mickey has theatrical dates to fill at Philadelphia and at Elizabeth, N. J. He will resume activities in the ring about the middle of December.

ARENA A. C. BILLS STRONG PRELIMS

Bryan, Downey and Augie Ratner will be supported by three eight-round bouts when they battle at the Boston Arena next Monday night. Two of the eights have already been arranged. Tommy Nee of So. Boston will quarrel with Eddy O'Neil of Nashua, N. H., while Steve Gin of So. Boston will swap blows with Jimmy McDonough of East Boston. Downey and Ratner are busy training for their match.

Augie Ratner

This is one of the most important middleweight bookings that could be made. Ratner's fifteen-round bout with Jack Malone in New York indicates that he is very likely to beat Downey.

Will Play on Friday

The Lexington High School girls' field hockey eleven will play Swampscott tomorrow

Harvard Will Honor Armistice Day in Stadium

As an observance of Armistice Day and in honor of the American soldiers who gave their lives to the country in the World War, the Harvard and Princeton bands will combine in the middle of the Stadium gridiron between the halves of the game Saturday, to play "The Star Spangled Banner."

A salute will be fired outside of the Stadium, and a bugler will sound "Taps" from the roof of the Stadium.

MALDEN BEATEN IN PROTEST ON EVERETT

At the meeting of the Suburban League Administrative Board at the Somerville High School the protest filed by Manager Fred Nash of Malden over the game of last Saturday which Everett won, 13 to 12, was dismissed.

The protest was made on the grounds of undue delay by Everett. This occurred when Coach Brickley of Everett objected to a decision that gave Malden a touchdown. It was on a Malden goal from a placement and it was claimed that the ball touched an Everett player thus putting all Malden boys on side and that recovered for a touchdown, when it failed to clear the crossbar.

All the Suburban League faculty football managers were present and the protest was beaten 7 to 1. Manager Nash voted for it. Everett Hitt will be replaced with a 13 to 12 victory over Malden and there a no change in the league standing.

CATHOLIC SCHOOLS IN TITLE BATTLES

By FRED C. LANE.

What can be termed the semi-finals of the Catholic High schools of the country will be decided on Saturday when Boston College High meets St. James High at Haverhill and St. John's prep of Brooklyn meets Cathedral High at Danvers.

The winners of these two ties can play for the championship. The Haverhill Prep School eliminated Leonard High of Baltimore and the Brooklyn school has swept before it the best in New York State.

The team from Brooklyn comes here well recommended. They have not dropped a contest this season. Victories have been obtained over Flushing High, Classon Point Military Academy and, on Saturday last, they beat the strong Concordia Prep School to a 6 to 6 affair.

Scouts Claim Brooklyn Team Averages 170 Pounds

Scouts who have witnessed the Brooklyn team play claim they average 170 pounds which will give the visitors a big advantage in weight over the Danvers club.

Coach "Jiggs" Donahue has been driving the Danvers eleven hard. The boys took advantage of the weather to put straw on the wet turf.

Captain Joe Dorsey, the sensational halfback, will be unable to play owing to a sprained ankle. Flynn who performed in the Queen's game on Saturday last will take his place.

Boston College High Hopes for Victory

McCarthy the regular right tackle must view the contest from the sidelines because of an injury sustained in the Worcester Trade game. Ford, an understudy, will start the game in his place.

Every attempt is being made to get the Boston College High team into playing shape. The team has had only a few of stiff work on Franklin Field under Coach Bill Dempsey.

Bill Ormsby, end on the Brown team of 1916 that defeated Harvard, and Assistant Coach Higgins, formerly of Holy Cross, are assisting with the squad.

"Bo" McMeniman, the husky fullback Joe Conlon, the team's punter, and Eddie Shield are in condition for the contest and expect to give the St. James team, which has two easy games this season, a real fight.

This game has been a yearly feature on the B. C. High schedule and the boys figure a victory over the Haverhill team will atone for the poor start this season.

ENGLISH HIGH WILL PLAY MARBLEHEAD

Coach Murray and his English High team has Boston's honor to uphold when they play Marblehead High on Saturday. Each team is now hooked for the championship in the respective leagues.

The outcome of this game will be easily watched by lovers of the sport as it will compare the strength of the teams in Boston with those of the North Shore League.

What More Could You Want

For a full day's pleasure—your dog—gun and a Pippin. When the fall of the game is proof of your aim and you smilingly puff on a Pippin, AH-H, BOY! that's satisfaction. For Pippins have been hitting the mark for over 40 years. Every time you fire, you've satisfied the desire for a real good smoke.

You don't have to hunt for Pippins — you can load-up wherever tobacco is sold. Long, clean filler, fine Sumatra wrapped.

NOT a machine made cigar.

Pitter Patter in Vodville Chatter on Jazz

By Nat N. Dorfman.

PITTER—Well, Pat, I just read in the papers where peace is further away than ever.

Patter—How do you make that out, Pit?

Pitter—I see where they're going to sell ukuleles on the installment plan.

Patter—Are you trying to string me? Don't you love the waft of a ukulele?

Pitter—Ha, I see you're trying to horn in another instrument of torture.

Patter—Oh, no, I just want to get your idea on jazz music, that's all. Don't you think it's uplifting?

Pitter—I'll say so. The fellow in the flat below me plays the saxophone all night long, and it lifts me out of the house. I got to go some place for a little rest.

Patter—Maybe he likes the hard?

Pitter—Oh, no. I've told him to go and blow his blooming head off, but he hasn't done so yet.

Patter—You should love your neighbor as yourself.

NEWLY-WED WAILS

By A. Newlywed.

MANY a woman who looks like a vision before a man leads her to the altar looks like a sight to him afterwards.

Stay single and you miss half the joys in life, declares a writer. Marry and you miss 'em all.

It has been discovered that the fellow who wrote, "How to be happy though married," was as impressed by what he wrote that he took his own advice and married. Now he doesn't think so much of his own advice.

Love letters have their place. But a great many men who figure in breach of promise suits wish they had been consumed by their own fire.

The fellow who said love was blind did not mean stone blind.

Perhaps the reason choirs sing at marriage ceremonies is to give newlyweds their last insight into harmony.

The student who in a grammar test said woman is an active verb evidently became confused with a part of speech.

One of the mysteries of the age is how fifteen women can all talk at the same time and not miss a word of what everyone of 'em are talking about.

The fellow who elopes with a girl must later on rack his brain to learn what he was in such a dence of a hurry about.

The practical economist will tell you that you can't live on love and kisses. But any grocer or butcher will obligingly inform you of this.

Nowadays men do not care who make the laws as long as they are assured that the men who make the latest fashions for women are regular guys.

Some girls expect a proposal of marriage from a fellow after he kisses them. Others take it merely on its face value.

While walking down Massachusetts avenue I passed a man with my sister and she went up to him and slapped him on the back and said: "Well, if it isn't my old friend Bill." He turned. My sister flushed and said: "Oh, I beg your pardon. I thought you were my cousin's brother Bill." He said: "Oh, it's all right."

Rather Different

"Good-afternoon, Mrs. Brown!" exclaimed Mr. Smith. "What a coincidence, meeting you! I ran into your husband an hour ago."

"How funny!" replied Mrs. Brown. "And how did you think he was looking?"

"Pretty poorly."

"Well, I'm surprised to hear you say that. Everyone says that he is looking much better lately."

"Well, he looked bad enough an hour ago," said Mr. Smith.

"I wonder why that was?" asked Mrs. Brown.

"Oh, I can tell you that!" said Mr. Smith. "You see, I was in my car when I ran into him."

Happy Thought

"Yes," mused the Arctic explorer, "at one time we came within an ace of freezing to death. Luckily, however"—he gazed thoughtfully at the ceiling—"we had the presence of mind to fall into a discussion."

Pitter—Did you ever try to do it with the fellow next door learning how to play the saxaphone? Boy, that's the acid test.

Patter—I guess you're a wet blanket. Don't you know jazz is the music of life?

Pitter—If it is, then all I can say is that a lot of poets have gone to the dogs lately.

Pitter—To me it sounds like a lot of nonsense.

Patter—I know that. I am speaking next to you.

Pitter—I suppose the next thing you'll say will be to condemn the Lindy hop and Shimmy.

Patter—If you keep this up you'll be instrumental in my going mad.

Pitter—Can I depend on that? But getting back to jazz, don't you think it is just full of rich notes?

Pitter—You bet, but the only trouble seems to be that the publishers are collecting them all.

Dropped Letters

The following are amusing instances of the mischief wrought by dropped letters in newspapers:

"Robert Jones was brought before the magistrate on a charge of having spoken unreason at the Jubilee public luncheon."

"In consequence of numerous accidents caused by skating on the Serpentine, steps are being taken to put a stop to it."

"A man was brought up, charged with having obtained a taxi driver for considerably more than his fare, and another man was accused of having stolen a small dog out of the Scotch express. The stolen property was found in his pocket."

"The Russian General Katchkaffowsky was found dead with a long sword sticking in his throat."

Simple Addition

A teacher of music in a public school was trying to impress upon her pupils the meaning of f and ff in a song that they were about to learn. After explaining the first she said: "Now children, what you say; if f means forte, what does ff mean?" "Eighty," replied one of the pupils.

WHEN KNIGHTHOOD WAS IN FLOWER

See This Romance of Princess Mary Tudor Starring Marion Davies in Super Motion Pictures Which Are Now Showing at the Park Theatre

By Charles Major

MARY told Brandon of how she was going to the king the day after the arrest to ask his release, and of the meeting with Buckingham, and his promise.

Still Brandon said nothing, and stood as if politely waiting for her to withdraw.

She remained silent a little time, waiting for him to speak, when tears, partly of vexation, I think, moistened her eyes.

"Tell me at least," she said, "that you know I speak the truth. I have always believed in you, and now I ask for your faith. I would not lie to you in the faintest shading of a thought—not for heaven itself—not even for your love and forgiveness, much as they are to me, and I want to know that you are sure of my truthfulness, if you doubt all else. You see I speak plainly of what your love is to me, for although, by rema ning away you made me fear I had been too lavish with my favors—that is every woman's fear—I knew in my heart you loved me; that you could not have done and said what you did otherwise. Now you see what faith I have in you, and you a man, whom a woman's instinct prompts to doubt. How does it compare with your faith in me, a woman, whom all the instincts of a manly nature should dispose to trust? It seems to be an unwritten law that a man may lie to a woman concerning the most important thing in life to her, and be proud of it, but you see even now I have all faith in your love for me, else I surely should not be here. You see I trust even your unspoken word when it might, without much blame to you be a spoken lie; yet you do not trust me, who have no world given right to speak falsely about such things, and when that which I now do be full of shame for me, and what I have done full of guilt, if inspired by aught but the purest truth from my heart of hearts. Your words mean so much—so much more, I think than you realize—and are so cruel in turning to evil the highest, purest impulse a woman can feel—the glowing pride in self-surrender, and the sweet, delightful privilege of giving where she loves. How can you? How can you?"

How eloquent she was! It seemed to me this would have melted the frozen sea, but I think Brandon felt that now his only hope lay in the safeguard of his previously upheld indignation.

When he spoke he ignored all she had said.

"You did well to employ my Lord of Buckingham. It will make matters more interesting when I tell your husband he was attacked by you and was caught by the leg under his wounded horse; he was made, I am told, for some days afterward. I had watched him following you from the gate at Bridewell, and at once recognized him when his mask fell during the fight by the wall. You have done well at every step, I see."

King Henry had yet to learn that Princess Mary's yielding had a sting to it

"Oh, God, to think of it! Had I but followed Buckingham I shall pay for this with his head; but how could I know? I was but a poor, distracted girl, sure to make some fatal error. I was in such agony—your wounds—believe me, I suffered more from them you could. Every pain you felt was a pang for me—and then that awful marriage! I was being sold like a wretched slave to that old satyr, to be gloated over and feasted upon. No man can know the horror of that thought to a woman—to any woman, good or bad. To have one's beauty turn to curse her and make her desirable only—only as well-fed cattle are prized. No matter how great the manifestation of such so-called love, it all the more repels a woman and adds to her loathing day by day. Then there was something worse than all"—she was almost weeping now—"I might have been able to bear the thought even of that hideous marriage—others have lived through the like—but—but after —that—that day—when you —it seemed that your touch was a spark dropped into a heart full of tinder, which had been lying there awaiting it all these years. In that one moment the flame grew so intense I could not withstand it. My throat ached; I could scarcely breathe, and it seemed that my heart would burst." Here the tears gushed forth as she took a step toward him with outstretched arms, and said between her sobs: "I wanted you, you! for my husband—for my husband, and I could not bear the torturing thought of losing you or enduring any other man. I could not live you up after that—it was all too late, too late; it had gone too far. I was lost! lost!"

He sprang to where she stood leaning toward him, and caught her to his breast.

She held him from her while she said: "Now you know—now you know that I would not have left you in that terrible place, had I known it. No, not if it had taken my life to buy your freedom."

"I do know; I do know. Be sure of that: I know it and shall know it always, whatever happens; nothing can change me. I will never doubt you again. It is my turn to ask forgiveness now."

"No, no; just forgive me; that is all I ask," and her head was on his breast.

"Let us step out into the passageway, Edwin," said Jane, and we did. There were times when Jane seemed to be inspired.

When we went back into the room Mary and Brandon were sitting in the window-way on his great cloak. They rose and came to us, holding each other's hands, and Mary asked, looking up to him:

"Shall we tell them?"

"As you like, my lady."

Mary was willing, and looked for Brandon to speak, so he said. "This lady whom I hold by the hand and myself have promised each other before the good God to be husband and wife, if fortune ever so favor us that it be possible."

"No, that is not it," interrupted Mary. "There is no 'if' in it; it shall be, whether it is possible or not. Nothing shall prevent." At this she kissed Jane and told her how she loved her, and gave me her hand, for her love was so great within her that it overflowed upon every one. She, however, always had a plenitude of love for Jane, and though she might scold her and apparently misuse her, Jane was as dear as a sister, and was always sure of her steadfast, tried and lasting affection.

After Mary had said there should be no "if," Brandon replied:

"Very well, Madame Destiny." Then turning to us: "What ought I to do for one who is willing to stoop from so high an estate to honor me and be my wife?"

"Love her, and her alone, with your whole heart, as long as you live. That is all she wants, I am sure," volunteered Jane, sent mentally.

World-Famous Story of the All-Conquering Power of Love Over the Heart of the Wilful and Beautiful Sister of the Autocratic King Henry VIII.

WHEN A GIRL MARRIES

By Ann Lisle

"AS it is things were carried over. They kept being continued in our next." And last night we came down to Headley's country place for a conference. We telephoned you from there. When Park seemed to be chanting meaningless songs just now he was indicating that we were all over there and you came from, baby dear—out of the nowhere into the here referred to the amazing fact that we had come from a week end with Max Headley."

"Could anything be more amazing?" I smiled. "But it isn't really —for I know why you did it. It was for dear Max. It was for something bright for once and chivalry."

"Which is a large order, Madame, but we'll try to fill it," Park broke on the old irrepressible note. "Now go on, Miss Prudence, you tell your story well."

"It's your story, you big kid, and it would serve you good and right if I left you to tell it yourself as the hero," cried Mr. Lacy.

"Go on 'not big bully,' laughed Park.

Realizing that they had to work off some of their energy in this fashion, I said nothing, like the big sister to two roughish urchins.

"It's like this," continued Ralph Lacy. "We got out to Headley a still talking about the South American deal in hats which I heard about through some national advertisers who are in touch with the South American market. Headley was eating it up because it was hats. Young Rockhill was eating it up because it looked like money for the Yelda bunch, and they need the cash. And then Park quietly asked which concern Mr. Headley wanted to have handle the deal."

"And that clarified things in the Headley mind? I exclaimed.

"And so I answered Mr. Lacy. Headley got out of that a bit roughly, we'll speak of it as eye and he didn't see why a big deal like this should be handles in any other way than through Headley's Hats. Then Park got in to be quite acute. Park, you tell her what you said."

"Sure, I'll tell her! I said what you'd coached me to say. I burst out as one inspired and remarked that since the tip which was turning out to be such a good lead had come from me to Rockhill, I thought it belonged to him and to his company through which I'd elected to do the job. Whereupon Mr. Headley, with some of the engaging stubbornness of an old mule, said that if I thought I could handle this without him, why didn't I say so. And I smiled and said I wouldn't go as far as to say that. This remark—I pause to add—was also rehearsed and drilled into me by that Master Mind, R. Lacy, who will now continue with his Machiavellian revelations."

"I suppose I am all about," Mr. Lacy continued. "You see all on a sudden, Max Headley got an inspiration. He had been talking with a great deal of vividness and candor. But suddenly he sat back and began to size up the situation and Park. Then he began to approach him—very cautiously, as one who fears that his tread may be too heavy and his touch not light enough."

"It was a spectacle!" chuckled Park. "He was so tactful—he approached the trap with such weariness, lest we see his intent to trap us. He added no less. Pardon the digression. Go on, Big Boy in a jolly pose."

"Park's with a great deal of perdonnal [illegible] Headley came to the point where we'd been coaxing him," said Mr. Lacy aloud, as if talking for his account again.

"And he exhibited that he'd been contemplating selling out his hat business in order to take a more active interest in the importing concern. But his Hats, he confessed, was the apple of his eye. And the Yelda Company had grown so that it was no longer a one-man concern. Now, he'd like to see a fine, bright young man like Mr. Parkinson interesting himself in a business of that sort. And we could till Mr. Rockwell was favorably impressed. But and there was a but—confessed Mr. Headley.

"All this while," continued Mr. Lacy, "Park was completely nonchalant, taking out a cigarette and tapping it on his case in the most approved fashion. I asked why a man who had all cultus as an idea didn't try to sell us. And Mr. Headley confessed, sadly, but firmly, that he was under no such obligation to a Miss Mary, who had been trying to get him to sell out Headley's Hats to a client of hers. And he couldn't in honesty and decency make a decisive move in the game until he'd seen her. And then, what?" I demanded.

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work.

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do their work deliberately and surely, without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaints, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect, 15c and 30c, and beautiful.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—It's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.

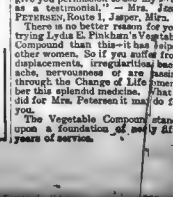
DAUGHTER HAD TO HELP MOTHER

Now Can Do All Her Housework Alone Because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Jasper, Minn.—"I saw in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and took it because I was having such pains in my stomach and through my back that I could not do my work. I had tried other medicines, but none did me the good that your Vegetable Compound did. Now I am able to do all my work alone while before I had my mother staying at home to do it. I have told a number of friends what it has done for me and given your medicine to many as a testimonial."—Mrs. Jessa PETERSEN, Route 1, Jasper, Minn.



There is no better reason for your trying Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound than this—it has helped other women. So if you suffer from displacements, irregularities, backache, nervousness or are passing through the Change of Life remember this splendid medicine. What it did for Mrs. Petersen it may do for you.

The Vegetable Compound stands upon a foundation of nearly fifty years of service.

KIMONO, By JOHN PARIS

Great Exposure of How Japanese Treat Their Women—

SUPPRESSED BY JAPANESE GOVERNMENT

This startling and intensely interesting story of the Cherry Blossom Kingdom, telling what the Japanese think of women, was suppressed by the Japanese government. The expose has stunned Europe and opened the eyes of the world to what has really been going on. John Paris, the author, was an English diplomat there for years.

THE CHARACTERS IN THE STORY:

THE HONORABLE GEOFFREY BARRINGTON, son of a 3rd Brandan, a Captain in the British Army, resigns his commission when he weds ASAKO FUJINAMI, heiress, daughter of Japanese parents who are dead, brought up and educated in French convent schools and introduced to London society by

LADY EVERINGTON, a brilliant matchmaker, who did not foresee the result of the bringing together of the two. At the reception toasts are drunk to the closer union of Britain and Japan, but both British and Japanese diplomats in the distinguished company evade the suggestion that the couple visit Japan, as appears to be their desire. Some of the reception guests frankly question the wisdom of the marriage and doubt the possibility of a happy life for the pair. Lady Everington, in her anxiety for the young Captain, who has been her special protege, interviews

BARON SATO, the Japanese Ambassador, who tells her the Fujinamis belong to the nouveaux riches of Japan, but gives little information of their origin or the source of their wealth. A visit to his wife's guardians, the Muratas, a Japanese family living in Paris, and a sojourn among the cosmopolitans of Deauville, sharpen the desire to see Japan. Aboard the ship they meet

COUNT KAMIAURA, returning home to wed a bride he has never seen. A stop at Nagasaki is the first sight of Japan.

"BUT," said Geoffrey, "when you saw your friends in England choosing for themselves, and falling in love and marrying for love's sake——?"

"Some of them choose for themselves and marry barmaids and divorced persons, just for the reason that they were in love and uncontrolled. So they brought shame to their families, and are unhappy. I think they would rake down her if they had let their relatives choose for them."

"Yes, but the others who marry is of their own set?"

"I think their choice is not really at all. I do not think it is to catch the girl that attracts them, or the plans and intentions of us around them, which urge him on. It is a kind of mesmeric. The parents of the young and the parents of the young make the marriage by forces."

That also is a good way. It is so very different from our system in Japan."

"Don't you think that people in England marry because they've each other?" asked Asako.

"Perhaps so," replied Kamimura. "But in our Japanese language we have no word which is quite the same as your word Love. So they we do not know what this is. It may be, perhaps, the same. Mr. Barrington will not to learn Japanese, I think."

They Liked Him

They liked the young man. He was a good athlete, he was amusing and well-bred, he clearly saw the difference between Good and Bad Form. Geoffrey's cold dislike of mingling with regard to Japan had been a doubt as to the wisdom of making the second instance of his wife's kindred. How dreadful if they turned out to be a collection of oriental curios, which make good Japanese brothers and cousins and uncles and aunts, all love each other publicly, however much they may hate each other in private."

"That is very hypocritical!"

"It is the social law," replied Kamimura. "In Japan the family is the important thing. You and I are nothing. If you want to get on in the world you must always be respect to your family. Then you are sure to get on, however stupid you may be. In England you think to use your families chiefly to quarrel with."

"I think our relatives ought to be just our best friends," said Asako.

"They are that too in a way," the young man answered. "In Japan it would be better to be born without hands and feet than to be born without relatives.

CHAPTER IV.

Nagasaki

Hono-bono to
Akashi no ura no
Asa-giri ni
Shima-kakure-yuku
Fune wo shi zo omou.

My thoughts are with a boat
Which travels inland hid
In the morning mist
Of the shore of Akashi
Dim, dim!

AFTER Hongkong, they left the zone of eternal Summer behind them. The crossing from Shanghai to Japan was rough, and the wind bitter. But on the first morning in Japanese waters Geoffrey was on deck betimes to enjoy to the full the excitement of arrival. They were approaching Nagasaki. It was a misty dawn. The sky was like mother-of-pearl, and the sea like miles. Abrupt gray islands appeared and disappeared, phantasmal, like guardian spirits of Japan, representatives of those myriads of Shinto deities who have the empire in their keeping.

Then, suddenly from behind the cliff of one of the islands a fishing boat came gliding with the silent stateliness of a swan. The body of the boat was low-and slender, built of some white, shining wood; from the middle rose the high sail like a silver tower. It looked like the soul of that sleeping island setting out upon a dream journey.

The mist was dissolving, slowly revealing more islands and more boats. Some of them passed quite close to the steamer; and Geoffrey could see the fishermen, dwarfish figures straining at the oar or squatting at the bottom of the boat, looking like Nibelungen on the quest for the Rhinegold. He could hear their strange cries to each other and to the steamer, harsh like the voice of sea-gulls.

Asako came on deck to join her husband. The thrill of returning to Japan had scattered her partiality for late sleeping. She was dressed in a tailor-made coat and skirt of navy-blue serge. Her shoulders were wrapped in a broad scarf of sable. Her head was bare. Perhaps it was the inherited instinct of generations of Japanese women, who never cover their heads, which made her dislike hats and avoid wearing them if possible.

The sun was still covered, but the view was clear as far as the high mountains on the mainland towards which the ship was ploughing her way.

"Look, Asako, Japan!"

Eyes Were Fixed

She was not looking at the distance. Her eyes were fixed on an emerald islet half a mile or less from the steamer, a red gateway rising out of the sea. It rose to the height of two hundred feet or so, a conical knoll, densely covered with trees. On the summit appeared a scar of rock like a ruined castle, and, rising from the rock, a single pine tree. Its trunk was twisted by all the winds of Heaven. Its long, lean branches groped the air like the arms of a blinded demon. It seemed to have an almost human personality, an expression of fruitless striving, pathetic, yet somehow sinister—a Prometheus among trees.

Geoffrey followed his wife's gaze to the base of the island where a shoal of brown rocks trailed out to seawards. In a miniature bay he saw a tiny beach of golden sand, and, planted in the sand, a red gateway two uprights and two lintels, the lower one held between the posts, the upper one laid across them and protruding on either side. It is the simplest of architectural feats, Geoffrey's engineering mind. It transformed the wooded island into a dwelling place. It cast an enchantment over it. It need scarcely to explain the meaning of the pine tree The place was holy, an abode of gods.

Geoffrey had read enough by now to recognize the gateway as the "torii," the religious symbol in Japan which always" announces the neighborhood of a shrine. It is a common feature of the countryside, as familiar as the crucifix in Catholic lands.

But almost at once seeing the beauty of her country for the first time, and unaware of the dimming cloud of unhappy reminiscences, clapped her hands together three times in sheer delight; me was it in unconscious obedience to the custom of her race which in this way calls upon the gods? Then with a movement entirely occidental she threw her arms around her husband's neck, kissing him with all the devotion of her being.

"Dear old Geoffrey, I love you so," she murmured. Her brown eyes were full of tears.

Narrow Channel

The steamer passed into a narrow channel, a kind of fiord, with wooded hills on both sides. The forests were gay with Spring foliage Never had Geoffrey seen such a variety or such density of verdure. Every tree seemed to be different from its neighbor; and the hillsides were packed with trees like a crowded audience. Here and there a spray of mountain cherry-blossom rose among the green like a jet of snow.

At the foot of the woods, by the edge of the calm water, the villages nestled. Only roofs could be seen, high, brown, thatched roofs with a line of sword-leaved trees growing along the roof-edge like a crown. These native cottages looked like timid animals, cowering in their forms under the protecting trees. One felt that at any time an indiscreet boot of the steamer might send them scuttering back to the forest deths.

There were no signs of life in these sunburned villages, where the fight between the forester's axe and primal vegetation seemed still undecided. Life was there; but it was hidden under the luxuriance of the overgrowth, hidden to casual passers-by like the life of fossils. Only by the seaside, where the houses were clustered together above a seawall of cyclopean stones, and on the beach, where the long narrow boats, sharp-prowed and piratical, were drawn up to the shore, the same queer-like little men, with a grotesque display of naked brown limbs, were sawing and hammering and mending their nets.

The steamer glided up the fiord towards a cloud of black smoke ahead. Unknown to Geoffrey, it passed the grey Italianate Catholic cathedral, the shrine of the old Christian faith of Japan planted there by Saint Francis Xavier four hundred years ago. Anchor was cast off the island of Deshima, now moored to the mainland, where during the locked centuries the Dutch merchants had been permitted to remain in profitable servitude. Deshima has now been swallowed up by the Japanese town, and its significance has shifted across the bay to where the smoke and din of the Mitsubishi Dockyard prepare romantic visitors for the modern industrial age. Even the cross of a Flemish Crucifixion.

In Quarantine

The quarantine officers came on board, little, brown men in uniform, absurdly self-important. Then the ship was besieged by a swarm of those narrow, primitive boats called sampans, which Loti has described as a kind of barbaric gondola, all jostling each other to bring merchants of local wares, damascene, tortoise-shell, pottery and picture post cards aboard the vessel, and to be the first customers.

Geoffrey and Asako were among the first to land. The moment of arrival on Japanese soil brought a pang of disappointment. The seafront at Nagasaki seemed very like a street in any starveling European town. For a long time a line of offices and consulates built in Western style, without distinction and without charm. Customs officers and policemen squinted suspiciously at the strangers. A few women, in charge of children or market-baskets, started blankly.

"Why, they are wearing kimono!" exclaimed Asako, "but how dirty and dusty they are. They look as though they had been sleeping in them!"

The Japanese women, indeed, cling to their national dress. But to the Barringtons, landing at Nagasaki they seemed ugly, shapeless and dingy. Their hair was greasy and unkempt. Their faces were stupid and scowling. Their figures were hidden in the muffle of their dirty garments. Geoffrey had been told they have baths at least once a day, but he was inclined to doubt it. Or else, it was because they all bathed in the same bath and the r ablutions were merely an exchange of grime. For where were those butterfly girls, who dance with fan and bat- tledore on our cups and saucers?

The rickshaws were a pleasant experience, the one-man perambulators; and the costume of the rickshaw-runners was delightful, and their gnarled, indefatigable legs. With their light trunk-hose of a coarse, dark-blue material and short coat to match like an Eton jacket, and with their large, round mushroom hats, they were like figures from the cross of a Flemish Crucifixion.

Women Working

Behind the Barrington's sampan, a large lighter came alongside the wharf. It was black with coal dust, and in one corner was heaped a pile of shallow baskets such as are used in coaling vessels at Japanese ports, being supplied from hand to hand in unbroken chain up the ship's side and down again to the coal barge. The work was finished. The lighter was empty except for a crew of coal-ata ned coolies which it was bringing back to Nagasaki. These were dressed like the rickshaw men. They wore tight trousers, short jackets and straw sun-hats. They were sitting, weary-ed, on the s des of the barge, wiping black faces with black towels. Their hair was long, lank and matted. Their hands were bruised and shape-s as with the rough toil.

"Poor ones," sighed Asako, "they've had hard work!"

The crowd of them passed, peering at the English people and chattering in high voices. Geoffrey had never seen such queer-looking fellows, with their long hair, sun-shaven faces, and stumpy bowlegs. One more dishevelled than the others was standing near him with tunic half-open. It exposed a woman's breast, black, loose and hard like lether.

"They are women!" he exclaimed, "what an extraordinary thing!"

But the children of Nagasaki—surely there could be no such illusionment. They are laughing, happy, many-colored and ubiquitous. They roll under the rickshaw wheels. They peep from behind the goods piled on the fr nt of the shops, a perpetual menace to shockkeepers, especially in the china stores, where their bird-like presence is more dangerous than that of the dreaded bull. They are blown up and down the tenoke-stepa like fallen petals.

They gather like humming-birds round the itinerant venders of the streets, the old men who balance on their bare shoulders their whole store in trade of sweetmeats, syrup-toys or a aging grasshoppers. They are the dolls of our own childhood, endowed with disconcerting life. Around their little bodies flaws the lave of color of an oriental people, whose adult taste has been disciplined to sombre browns and greys. Wonderful mother kimonos they make for their children with flower patterns, butterfly patterns, ivy and fairy-story patterns, printed on flannelette—or on silk for the little plutocrats—in all colors, among wh ch reds, oranges, yellows, mauves,' blues and greens predominate.

Children at Play

They invaded the depressing atmosphere of the European-style hotel, where Geoffrey and Asako were trying to enjoy a tasteless lunch—their grubby, bare feet pattering on the worn floor.

It pleased him to watch them, playing their game of Jankenpan with much show of podgy fingers, and with restrained and fitful scampering. He even made a tentative bid for popularity by throwing copper coins. There was no scramble for this largesse, bravery and in turn each child pocketed his penny, but they all regarded Geoffrey with a wary and suspicious eye. He, too, on closer inspection found them not ungainly and wrapped away in the twilight robes. It was a half-hour of luminous grayness. The skies were gray and the waters of the bay and roofs of houses. A gray vapor rose from the town; and a black-gray trail of smoke drifted from the dockyards and from the steamers in the harbor. The cries and activities of the city below rose clear and distinct but infinitely remote, as sound of the world might reach the Gods in Heaven. It was a half-hour of fairy-land when anything might happen.

Tea and Cakes

Two little maids brought tea and sugary cakes, green tea like bitter hot water, insipid and unsatisfying. It was a shock to see the girls' faces as they raised the tiny china teacupa. Under the glaze of their powder they were old and sa be.

They observed Asako's nationality, and began to speak to her in Japanese.

"Their politeness is put on to order," thought Geoffrey, "they seem forward and inquisitive minxes."

But Asako only knew a few set phrases of her native tongue. The baffled tie ladies, one of whom after a whispered consultation and some giggling behind sleeves, went off to find a friend who would solve the mystery.

"Ocsan, Nasan, (elder sister)" she called across the garden.

Strange little dishes were produced on trays of red lacquer, fish and vegetables of different kinds artistically arranged, but with unpalatable oil.

A third nasan appeared. She could speak some English.

"Is 'oblasan' your wife, Japanese?" she began, after she had placed the tiny square table before Geoffrey, and had performed a prostration.

Geoffrey assented.

He received the prostration before okusama, and murmured greetings in Japanese.

"But I don't speak Japanese," said Asako laughing. This perplexed the girl, but her curiosity prompted her.

"Danna San (master) Ingiris'?" she asked, looking at Geoffrey.

"Yes," said Asako, "many Englishmen have Japaneso wives?"

"Yes, very many," was the unexpected reply in Fuji dialect, she continued, indicating one of the other maids, "have Ingiris' danna San very many years ago, very kind danna san; give O Fuji plenty nice kimono; he say, O Fuji very good girl, go to Ingiris' wit him; O Fuji say, No, cannot go, mother very sick; so danna san go away. Glad O Fuji San very nice finger ring."

She lapsed into vernacular. This other girl showed with a feigned embarrassment a little ring set with glassy sapphires.

"Oh," said Asako, dimly comprehending.

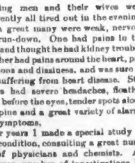
You Can Now Try This Newer Form Of Iron At My Expense

I First Compounded This Remarkable Remedy Called Nuxated Iron For My Own Neighbors And Their Praise Of It Has Spread So Rapidly That Now Over Four Million People Use It Annually—Read My Unusual Offer Below.



Years ago I began to wonder at the great number of my own friends and neighbors who were always complaining and ingand doctoring, without ever seeming to get any better. Both working men and their wives were frequently all tired out in the evening, and a great many were weak, nervous and run-down. One had pains in the back and thought he had a kidney trouble. Another had pains around the heart, palpitations and dizziness, and was sure he was suffering from heart disease. Still others had severe headaches, dealing spots before the eyes, tender spots along the spine and a great variety of alarming symptoms.

For years I made a special study of this condition, consulting a great number of physicians and chemists. An immense number of investigations by physicians all over the country showed that three people out of every four you meet lack 100% iron in their blood. Lack of iron in the blood is the greatest cause of all devitaliing weaknesses. It is the iron in your blood that enables you to get the nourishment out of your food. Without iron, nothing you eat does you any good. Your heart, lungs and kidneys and all your vital organs get their nourishment from the blood stream, and when the blood lacks iron and is thin, pale and watery, you may suffer from the symptoms of a great number of diseases when the real and true cause of all your trouble is a lack of iron in the blood.

In the old days people often took metallic iron, which some physicians claim is not absorbed at all. In compounding this newer form of iron which I call Nuxated Iron, I employed a special form of iron, which is like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples. Unlike the ordinary forms of iron, it will not injure the teeth nor disturb the stomach, and it is ready for almost immediate absorption and assimilation by the blood. It is the people whose blood is rich in iron who possess great strength, force and energy. If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test:

Cut out trial coupon and go to any druggist and get your first trial package of Nuxated Iron; then see how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two 5-grain tablets of Nuxated Iron three times a day after meals for two weeks, then test your strength again and see how much you have gained. An astonishing number of nervous, run-down people who were ailing all the while, have greatly improved their health and increased their strength, energy and endurance simply by taking this newer form of iron.

Trial Coupon

Fill in this coupon with your name and address and take to any druggist in your city. Deposit with him the price of one regular full-size bottle of Nuxated Iron. This is not a premium, but a dependable iron. If you are not more than delighted with the results obtained by two weeks' use of Nuxated Iron, simply return the outside wrapper to your own druggist who will promptly refund your money. We will repay the druggist the full amount he refunds upon receipt of the coupon and wrapper.

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

The majority of business men will not feel particularly exultant over the election results.

It was fairly easy to gauge while travelling through all sections of the country, that the administration was going to lose much of its support, a circumstances which was mentioned some little time ago by the writer. The actual figures, however, cannot but make a deep impression.

The complaint most frequently voiced was that the Republicans were without businesslike leadership in Congress. It was pointed out that there was far too much wobbling over important measures, far too much indecision, far too much backing and filling. Various Republican leaders, it was charged, were apparently afraid to exercise the courage of their convictions.

The administration's bonus tactics displeased a very large number of voters, while its tariff action also displeased many. And, of course, the wiggly-wobbly course pursued on international affairs did not excite any very warm admiration in any circles. Nor did the railroad and coal strike action —or inaction.

* * *

The business community will await with keen interest the effect of this election upon the attitude and the actions of the administration from now on.

I promised to tell something about Columbus, Ohio, the last town I visited.

It was gratifying to learn from President R. H. Schryver of the Citizens Trust and Savings Bank, Central Ohio's largest State bank, that business in this section had come along satisfactorily. Labor is scarce rather than plethoric.

Columbus is rather proud of the fact that it is not a one-industry town. It has quite a number of rather important local enterprises.

This, however, will interest other communities. The city does not its face against striving to attract new plants until it has first put itself in a position to handle properly the various problems which the advent of new enterprises would bring.

For example, Columbus, being a university town attaches prime importance to education. Therefore, it wants to build more public schools, both grade and high, to take care of additional pupils before hiring to the city Columbus of workers and their families. Unfortunately for the welfare of this report, some other cities haven't followed quite as sensible and fair a policy.

Some of the university buildings are very fine. And, of course, Columbus now has the largest stadium the world has ever seen. It is gigantic that the Coliseum, at Rome was small in comparison. The people, naturally, are very tremendously proud of this university structure. The opening football match in it, two or three years ago, attracted something like 75,000 people.

MACK TRUCKS, INC.

To I. B. B., Charlestown.—I have latest Mack Trucks, Inc., report just at hand. Concern for three months ended September 30 reports net earnings of $1,205,732 after deducting charges for maintenance, depreciation, taxes, etc. This compares with $12,633 earned during the same period of 1921.

The total net earnings for the nine months ended September 30, 1922, amounted to $2,760,564, which after providing for preferred dividends on the first and second preferred stock, equals $6.78 per share earned on 283,108 shares of common stock outstanding, and further compares with earnings for the same period of 1921 of $640,663.

LOOSE-WILES.

To Y. C., Jersey street.—Financial position and outlook of Loose-Wiles Biscuit Company is more favorable than ever. Incorporation for nine months of this year sales exceeded 1921 period, in spite of price reductions of between 15 per cent. and 20 per cent.

In the 9 2-3 years since establishment aggregate net available for dividends was $5,011,166, an annual average of $550,426. This is equivalent to an average of $18.23 a share on 7 per cent. first preferred, of which $4,434,000 is now outstanding, $23.67 on $2,000,000 7 per cent. second preferred and $4.17 on $5,000,000 common. During this time the company could easily have made payments on second preferred and also on the common, but conservatism favored a steady building up of resources which events have fully justified.

BORROWING MONEY.

To K. S., Methuen.—It would be better to sell your government bonds than to use them as security for stock loans for which you are charged 6 per cent. The split-up Standard Oil stocks ought to sell higher, though just how soon is anyone's guess.

U. S. Steel Is at New Recent High in Generally Strong New York Market

GEN. ASPHALT IS OFF 7 POINTS TO NEW LOW

U. S. Steel, topping its 3-point advance made late Wednesday, lifted to a new recent high on the New York Stock Exchange. The rest of the steel group was higher in a generally strong market. Money renewed at 5½ per cent.

General Asphalt continued a reactionary feature, off more than 7 points to a new low. Highs for 1922 were made by May Stores, Chile Copper, Van Raalte and National Biscuit, the last-named up 10 points.

SUBSTANTIAL GAINS.

Bullish confidence increased when it was perceived that the disconcerting break in Asphalt was not retarding the progress toward higher levels by many other stocks.

U. S. Steel crossed 110. General Asphalt preferred slumped 4 points to 80, also a low figure for the year.

Woolworth dropped 8 points, Mexican Petroleum and People's Gas 7, South Porto Rico Sugar 2¾ and Central Leather 1.

Elsewhere substantial advances were the rule, Market Street Railway second preferred gaining 4 points, Loose-Wiles Biscuit, Jewel preferred, Computing Tabulating Recording, American Ice and California Petroleum 2 to 2½.

SNUFF ADDS 10.

Sinclair Oil, Houston, Coates, Baldwin, American Can, common and preferred, U. S. Realty, International Harvester, International Paper, Western Union, Remington Typewriter second preferred, Mathieson Alkali and New Orleans, Texas & Mexico gained 1 to 1¾.

American Snuff was up 10¾, May Department Stores 6, and Sears Roebuck 4 the same.

A feature of dealings was a sale of a block of 13,700 shares of General Motors at 14, off ¾.

CONNOR STORES HAS DOUBLED DIVIDEND

Directors of John T. Connor Co. have declared a quarterly dividend of 50 cents on common stock, payable January 2, 1923, to stock of record December 20, 1922. This doubles the annual rate of $2 distributed since July, 1920, having been quarterly payments of 25 cents each.

The regular semi-annual preferred dividend of 3½ per cent was also declared, payable on same date.

COTTON FUTURES MAKE FRESH TOP

After a wave of profit-taking which carried prices down nearly a full cent a pound, cotton rallied rapidly and went into new high ground for the season. December sold at 26.72, a quarter of a cent above Wednesday's highest price. Other contracts made similar advances.

MUTUAL DIVIDE HAS MADE GOOD ADVANCE

Mutual Divide on the Boston Curb has come through with the good advance predicted for it in the past few days, and trading has been very heavy. The backers of this issue declare the top is still far removed, and that they will push it through on the stock's merits to a surprisingly good trading level.

PRICES ARE STEADY IN LONDON MARKET

Prices were steady in London Consols sold at 56⅞; British war loan 3½s 89½; 5s 98⅜; up ⅛; 4½s, 95; 4s 10½; funding 4s 87, up ⅛; convertible 5½s, French 5s 28, up ⅜; Russian 5s 9, off 1; 4½s 7; 4s 7. New Indian loan sold at ⅛ discount. Rio Tinto 28.

MEXICAN SEABOARD 50 CTS. QUARTERLY

Mexican Seaboard has declared quarterly dividend of 50 cents. Previously dividends of 50 cents a month were paid, but in August last directors decided to act on dividends every three months instead of monthly.

STANDARD OIL OF KANSAS TO PAY 300 PER CENT

Directors of the Standard Oil Company of Kansas, according to advices received here today, have put their O. K. on approval of a 300 per cent stock dividend.

In taking this action they follow the lead of the large Standard Oils. This company's business is practically confined at present to the refining and transportation of oil. It is capitalized for $2,000,000.

On the New York Curb the Kansas Standard stock rose 21 points at 651 on news of the stock bonus.

Before disintegration of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey the only dividend reported was one of 125 per cent, paid in 1906. Since the split-up ordered in 1911 by the U. S. Supreme Court, total dividends to June 15 of this year amounted to $4,670,-888.

Stockholders will be asked to approve the split up in the present capital stock from stock of $100 a share par value to $25 a share, so that after the stock dividend is approved, stockholders will receive sixteen shares of stock of $25 a share par value for each share of $100 now held.

Other Standard Oil issues have recently declared these dividends:

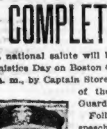
ARMISTICE DAY PROGRAM IS COMPLETED

A national salute will be fired on Armistice Day on Boston Common at 11 a. m., by Captain Storers' battery of the National Guard.



Adolph Marix

Following this, speeches will be made by Governor Cox, Mayor Curley, Major-General C. H. Dodd and Rear Admiral Wiley and Colonel Marix.

Command from the Marine Corps, blue jackets and the U. S. Infantry will be present and take part in the ceremonies.

RED CROSS EXHIBIT.

The Red Cross will give an exhibition of their efficiency in rendering first aid to the sick and wounded and in each branch of their work.

All troops belonging to the headquarters of the First Corps Area will parade on this day at the armory base, South Boston, and at the different forts in Boston Harbor.

For two minutes preceding the national salute of twenty-one guns at 11 a. m., the troops will be brought to "Parade Rest," and remain in silent contemplation, as a mark of respect and homage to the comrades who have given their lives for their country.

BANQUET AT SOMERSET.

The Armistice Day banquet of the Military Order of the World War will be held at the Somerset at 6:30 p. m., with Major Joseph W. Bartlett presiding.

In order to clear up the uncertainty about the status of November 11, Governor Cox wishes it to be understood that he has no authority to declare Armistice Day a legal holiday. That authority rests with the Legislature. The Governor's proclamation simply asks that there be a general observance of Armistice Day so that its significance in Massachusetts may be properly appreciated.

A.A.R.I.R. CABLES PROTEST

Massachusetts State Council, American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic, believing that Mary MacSwiney will emulate the fatal hunger strike of her brother, the Lord Mayor of Cork, for the Irish Republican cause, sent a cablegram of protest to the Free State government by whom she is confined.

The cablegram follows:

"Messrs. Cosgrave and Mulcahy, Mansion House,
Dublin, Ireland.

"As a sachusetts County, American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic, on behalf of 100,000 citizens and members, indignantly protest t.h e impriconment of Mary MacSwiney, the great Irish patriot, and demand her release that necessity for hunger strike for Irish freedom may not add another martyr to Ireland's patriotic role.

(Signed) "JOHN F. HARRIGAN,
"State President."

Mrs. Mary MacSwiney

First Test of Censorship

Can Anyone Doubt Now That the Public Is for the Freedom of the Screen?

The first test of public opinion concerning the moving picture censorship was made in intelligent, conservative Massachusetts. Here we have sense enough to have a Constitution which provides that a law passed by the Legislature shall be submitted to the people if certain proportions of the people want to have that law submitted to them. A petition signed by only 20,000 is required to compel the submission of such a law.

Certain hysterical but honest people and certain other professional reformers, not so honest, but getting meal tickets from their hypocritical activities succeeded in making a great deal of noise in frightening the Legislature into passing the moving picture censorship bill. Fortunately, however, it was under the Constitution required to be submitted to the people and 20,000 citizens, men and women, signed their names to a petition which compelled it to be submitted. Then both sides went out and campaigned on the question. Both sides discussed it, both sides urged their reasons for and against. It was thoroughly debated. None of the parties made it a party issue and all the candidates avoided it. But speakers of both parties spoke freely on it and the papers were full of literature on the subject.

Not a great deal of money was spent, but a great deal of time and activity was given to the discussion of it. The State issued a pamphlet in which both sides of the case were briefly stated. It was not an entirely satisfactory pamphlet, and not so good a pamphlet as will be issued the next time a great question goes to the ballot, for we have to make progress slowly and things are always incomplete in the beginning.

But the significant thing is that after the question had been thoroughly debated, after both sides had been heard, THE CENSORSHIP PROPOSAL WAS REJECTED BY A TREMENDOUS VOTE. The latest returns indicate that the vote will be more than three to one against censorship.

There is no State in the Union more dour in the legalistic attitude toward public morals than Massachusetts. There is no people more strict and conventional. Yet it has been contended by the advocates of censorship that the people of the country, even those in New York and Illinois, where cosmopolitan life is the strongest and Puritan morals have the weakest hold, that the people would favor motion picture censorship.

Can anybody in the world now deny that the people do not want moving picture censorship, that they do love their Constitutional liberties, among the most precious of which is the right of freedom of speech and of press, and that they are intelligent enough to understand that the propagandist power of the newspapers is even exceeded by the propagandist power of the moving picture, and that the moving picture, therefore, ought to be protected even more than the newspaper from the assaults and restrictions of government?

Fitzgerald's Great Effort

He Made a Brilliant and Fair Fight

John F. Fitzgerald is technically defeated, but he has really won one of the greatest victories of his life. If anybody had said that he would be able physically or mentally to conduct the campaign he has conducted in his recent canvass, that person would have been considered a man of little judgment. Yet at sixty, Fitzgerald fought as he never fought before. He outdid his own record, which is a record of energy and campaign capacity never before equaled and never since excelled. In this contest he was the only rival of his own former brilliance of campaigning.

On the whole, also, he rose above the Boston method of conducting a campaign. He struck his opponent fairly. His blows were above the belt, and on the only occasion when in the scrimmage he hit below the belt, he was prompt to apologize for it.

With a great many handicaps, which we do not care to discuss and which he probably would not care to discuss, he made a brilliant fight, and it will be a satisfaction to him and his family and friends as long as they live.

Governor Cox

Governor Cox gained a great victory! He was running against a powerful campaigner—a man who above most others knows how to make the greatest use of campaign material. He was running a second heat against a fresh entry, and he had been bitten and scarred by his first opponent. His reserve of strength was very remarkable.

This campaign ought to put to rest the prevalent whisperings which his personal enemies put out about him, and that have been generally believed, so frequently were they heard, to the effect that Governor Cox was a "light-weight" whose chief capacity was in pussy-footing. His comeback at Faneuil Hall and his conduct during the present campaign puts at rest that story which ought never to have gone far with intelligent people anyway.

Gaston and Lodge Vote

If it appears that the vote between Mr. Gaston and Mr. Lodge is very close and a recount is wise, we urge the Democratic State Committee and Mr. Gaston's personal friends to take nothing for granted concerning the custody of the ballots.

The Republicans are desperate throughout the country; they want to control the Senate; they want to control it very badly. We do not believe that Massachusetts Republicans would attempt to tamper with the ballots. It has not been a recent practice; we hope that it will never happen again, but you never can tell what may happen when temptation lets the key to things lie around loose through the carelessness of those who ought to protect themselves.

Boston Learned the Lesson

A New Day Is Dawning

By Winifred Black

THE other night it was foggy and all the city lay glittering through the mist like a bejeweled woman wrapped in a veil of lace.

The street cars slid up and down the hill like strange ghosts and the tall man who came to the door on an errand looked gigantic in the fog.

The lights across the bay were smothered.

When it is clear they always make me think of that field of dancing daffodils I used to love to dream of when I was a prisoner in the noise and hurry and careless brilliancy of New York.

But last night they were like field flowers drenched in dew. They did not flash and gleam. They glimmered softly like the fireflies we used to catch at twilight in Eastern meadows when we imprisoned them under a tumbler and wondered to see the dimming of the bright light that was theirs.

And all the air was sweet with the scent of gardens and of the soft, salt sea, and it was very still, and we could hear the bells in the channel crying like little lost children in the dark.

Far into the night the bells cried and then seemed to fall silent as if the restless waves were still at last and all the world might slumber in peace.

But early in the morning—very early, with the coming of the little breeze that so often presages the dawn—the fog lifted, and the sky was full of laughing stars and the trees bent their heads and whispered together, and those who watched knew that another day was at hand.

"The breeze before the dawn"—how many there are who lie fevered and in pain and pray to feel the kindness and the relief of the presence of that lifting wind.

Like a hope expressed it is—the little wind of the morning—like a promise and like the song in the heart of a happy child.

How the fog melts before it, and how humiliatingly comes the new day up from the east, called, it almost seems, by the breeze before the dawn.

Is it blowing through the world today, the wind that comes before the sunrise?

And will the fogs of misunderstanding and hatred and narrow intolerance drift away, like so many ghosts, to be soon forgotten as the idle phantoms of an idle dream, when the sun really rises and the dawn arrives?

Soft Coal $40 a Ton

Editor Boston American:

It may be that you can help through the columns of your widely-read paper to spread this fact—that soft coal is being sold at the rate of forty dollars per ton—to the poor. The coal, for which dust would be a better name, is sold in bags at small stores throughout Boston.

What are our public officials doing that such a state of affairs is allowed to exist? These gentlemen do not suffer from the cold, it is true, therefore it does not worry them if the woman in the dreary side street shivers with an infant at her breast and a couple of children huddle in a corner and try to keep warm, while their mother vainly endeavors to make a fire in the kitchen stove of the bag of dust for which she has paid thirty cents. Verily it is the day of the profiteer, and justice seems to have vanished from the earth!

Feels Ashamed

Editor Boston American:

I cannot restrain myself from expressing my feelings about the action of the committee and others from Charleston, S. C., towards the negro boy, George Chandler of Peabody. In fact, there is little need of saying anything in a way, for their very action proves the extent of their intelligence, but one cannot help wondering what influence it will have on the rising generation to see their elders, and the ones they look up to, set such an example.

It makes me feel ashamed of my color, and I can imagine the bitter feelings that must rankle in the boy's heart for all whites.

Profiteers

Editor Boston American:

Apparently a number of concerns in Boston who sell cigarettes do not know that the war is over. Either that or they take great pleasure in gouging the public. The cheaper brands of "smokes" can be bought from all leading cigar stores for $.16, and some are advertising the brands for $.14. Most of the little sidewalk stands one finds about town are also charging the same. At some of the cigar stands in the railroad stations they are still charging $.18 for $.16 article. How do they get that way? Is there anyone in this State who has the power to put a stop to such practice? An investigation will prove the truth of the above statements. Let us have action.

Mother of Six in Need

Editor Boston American:

I am the mother of six small children and I find myself in desperate straits financially. I am an experienced stenographer, thoroughly trained in office routine, capable of organizing detail, dictating correspondence, reporting hearings, committee meetings or other difficult stenographic work. I would like very much to secure employment for Saturdays, Sundays and evenings, or work to do at home.

New Republics Failures

By Universal Service.

BERLIN, Nov. 9.—"Tragic failures" is what H. L. Mencken, the well-known journalist, publicist and man of letters at large, calls the republics created by the grace of the Versailles Treaty in central and southeastern Europe, as well as those along the Baltic.

In the course of a recent tour of observation through these regions redeemed for democracy, he arrived at the overwhelming conclusion that "all republics are run by thieves," and that "they are purely artificial creations destined to break in two as soon as the prop supporting them is withdrawn."

"This 'prop'—to be read 'France' in the Menckonian interpretation—is on the point of bankruptcy and cannot go on indefinitely making subsidies to these little republics for "services rendered."

Poland is one of the outstanding examples of a short-sighted and self-interested policy on the part of the great powers. As a result of her vassalage to France and her imperialistic aims she is now in a desperate financial and economic plight, and is broadcasting her woes in the columns of the Kurjer Warszawska. Her impoverished condition is enumerated under the following seven heads:

1. Something like two and a half billion Polish marks would be required for the most imperative repairs upon the houses and streets of Warsaw.

2. The factories of the country are neither covered by an adequate insurance nor have they sufficient capital to insure their maintenance.

3. Despite the auspicious conjuncture, the farmers can contribute nothing to the national capital owing to the new agrarian laws and the uncertainty of their incomes.

4. Poland has been practically depleted of cash owing to the continued depreciation of the Polish mark.

5. Banks and other financial institutions are gradually growing weaker as a result of the exchange situation despite their enormous gains.

6. The Polish railways, the leading State-owned enterprise, are working with a tremendous deficit.

7. The broad masses of the population are not earning anything like the wages necessary to meet the increased cost of living, and the "intelligentsia" is in a pitiable condition.

In short, republics in Europe so far have not been an unqualified success.

SEEN AND HEARD

THERE are four Baptist women preachers in Massachusetts, MRS. C. E. TEDFORD of Pocasset, MISS ELIZABETH CAMPBELL of Boston, MRS. LAURA E. HARTLEY of Marshfield and MRS. EMMA J. PARKES of Bellingham. The last two are widows of clergymen and learned to preach from hearing their husbands and are preaching their old sermons with good effect.

REV. SAMUEL DAVIS McCONNEL, a pastor for fifty years, and former rector of St. Stephen's Protestant Episcopal Church of Philadelphia, is the author of a book just published in which he renounces the faith on which Christian churches are founded.

Lynn, it seems, just missed being the big automobile city instead of Detroit. E. E. Winkley, head of a big Lynn firm of mechanical engineers, told friends how in 1906 he and a partner constructed automobile parts in their room. They carried the parts downstairs and put them together. People stopped in wonder to gaze. When the pair tried to get capital to start business Lynn was skeptical, however. After two days of discouraging effort the car was left out over night and the radiator froze.

Family at Kittery Point, Me., which was called Boston before that name was given to this city, has a dog which attends church every Sunday. At first he followed them to worship, then stayed outside, but later was admitted to warmth and comfort of family pew. Recently, when his master and mistress were ill and unable to stand, the dog went to church alone and stowed himself away in the pew during services as usual.

Among New England flowers and plants threatened with extinction through action of persons who carelessly pull them up by the roots is the trailing arbutus, Massachusetts State flower. MRS. HARRIET UPHAM GOODE is a leading worker for preservation and shortly addresses the Walpole Woman's Club on the subject.

It isn't every city that the Boston Elevated will advertise as it does Malden. There is a car that leaves Everett station marked in this manner: Pleasant Malden via West Everett. The starter also announces the car in this manner: "This car for Pleasant Malden by the way of West Everett."

The only drug store in Boston that has not changed its location or its management since it was founded in 1826 is still in its old quarters on Union street in this city, doing business under the management of the third generation of those who first started it.

REV. LUCIUS THAYER of Portsmouth, N. H., is pastor of the old North Church, which still boasts the pew where DANIEL WEBSTER, who died seventy years ago this month at the age of seventy, sat on Sundays while he was practicing law and running his successful campaign for a seat in Congress after being admitted to the bar in Boston.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON METRIC SYSTEM

By Garrett P. Serviss

ALL scientific work, all over the civilized world, is done on the basis of the metric system of weights and measures. With the exception of Great Britain, with the United States following at its heels, there is no important country on earth in which the metric system is not also the standard used in the ordinary affairs of life. But in the two countries just named every effort toward accord with the rest of mankind on this subject is persistently resisted.

The consequence is that everybody in the United States and Great Britain, from the child in school to the old man casting up his last accounts, is compelled to waste time and energy in crossing, to and fro, often hundreds of times a day, the swinging bridge of arithmetic calculation that connects the two systems.

Everybody in these countries has to study two ways of doing the same things—the one an easy, logical way (the metric), which works almost automatically; the other a difficult, complicated, illogical way (the British), which requires long, preliminary study, and much figuring. And, having studied both, he is forced to use those along the Baltic.

In the course of a recent tour of observation through these regions redeemed for democracy, he arrived at the overwhelming conclusion that "all republics are run by thieves," and that "they are purely artificial creations destined to break in two as soon as the prop supporting them is withdrawn."

"This 'prop'—to be read 'France' in the Menckonian interpretation—is on the point of bankruptcy and cannot go on indefinitely making subsidies to these little republics for "services rendered."

CHINA IN EARNEST IN OPIUM CRUSADE

PEKING, Nov. 9.—"Opium must be abolished," says the President of China in a forceful mandate recently issued. The government has appointed a committee to investigate the traffic. The members include the military and civil authorities of every province. A member from the International Anti-Opium Society will be given a seat also. The various educational, missionary and anti-vice societies of all China are requested to cooperate.

"We mean business this time," say officials. The committee is armed with full powers, and its work has the unanimous approval of the Cabinet. The situation is described as serious, for the growth of the poppy has been steadily on the increase. This is laid to the military, who derive large profits in the collection of opium taxes and the granting of illegal permits. Full publicity is now proposed and the war lords must face the issue whether they wish it or not.

The investigation will be carried on when the poppy is in bloom, so that there will be no chance for concealment. In the past many of the inspectors have been handicapped for lack of tangible evidence. With public opinion ready stirred it is hoped to get results.

The opium sellers have begun a defense. In many places they claim that whole communities would be deprived of their sole means of livelihood if they were not permitted to grow the poppy. They also assert that until Burma and India and other members of the British Far Eastern colonies are also prohibited from raising this crop there will be no appreciable decrease in the manufacture or sale of opium. In the mountainous districts the coolies smoke about one pill a night, and this moderate consumption is said to be no more harmful than tobacco. The stimulant also permits them to rest during the cold, wet nights and is practically the only pleasure they have.

A much more sinister drug which is working havoc among the poor people, is morphine. This has been brought in to a large extent by Japanese smuggle.* Whole villages have been ruined, and the Japanese have been protected by their extra-territoriality privilege. The Nippon government is taking measures to punish its subjects engaged in this traffic.
